Democrats Convinced on Third Term

Strategy for Draft Not Yet Firmly Fixed

Farley Still Keeping Name in Race; Choice of Running Mate Gives Delegates Biggest Worry As Vote Time Nears

BULLETIN

CHICAGO — (INS) — Postmaster James A. Farley announced today that any delegate pledged to him is "free to vote for any other candidate—if he sees fit." This was interpreted by some leaders as a virtual release of the 31 Massachusetts delegates who are pledged to Farley.

By W. B RAGSDALE

CHICAGO — (AP) — Democrats whose pockets were crammed with third term pledges gathered for their national convention in Chicago stadium today convinced that President Roosevelt would accept renomination.

This viewpoint persisted among the crowds jamming gaily decorated hotel lobbies, even though close friends of the chief executive quoted him as saying he was "not a candidate."

The strategy for delivering up a "draft" nomination to the president, however, had not been firmly fixed up to the time for National Chairman James A. Farley to open the first convention session.

Farley kept his own name in the presidential race, saying he assumed that his pledged Massachusetts delegates would support him Some in that group, though, announced that they would vote for Mr Roosevelt

The general belief that the president would run left speculation free to roam through vice presidential possibilities and into the field of foreign affairs where there still was not certainty and an argument might not develop

Here the name of Secretary Hull rose into high prominence. Many said he would be the man

Taunt Hitler On Slow Start Of Blitzkrieg

Counter-Offensive in 1942 Planned by Churchill Who Maps 2-Year Defense Of Island Kingdom; Nazis Say Ultimate Blow Certain

BULLETIN

ROME — (AP) — Authoritative Fascist Editor Virginio Gayda indicated today that Germany and Italy would serve an ultimatum on Great Britain within a few days, offering her a choice between surrender or destruction.

(By Associated Press)

Britons celebrated another reported victory today over German air raiders—in a battle high above the hotly-contested Straits of Dover—and took hope of ultimate victory from a fighting speech by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Britain's plan of campaign, Churchill disclosed, calls for a two-year defensive war to guard the British Isles against Nazi conquest, and then, in 1942, a counter-offensive.

"We would rather see London laid in ruins and ashes than enslaved," he declared.

Nazi raiders, keeping up the relentless schedule of bombing attacks that have peppered the island kingdom almost daily since June 18, dropped high explosives on a south coast English town this morning.

"Some houses were damaged and a small number of casualties were caused, of which some were fatal," the ministry of home security reported.

Britain is ready, Churchill said, if Germany tries an actual invasion.

Bombs fell in the Holy Land in its first raid of the war today when "enemy" planes — presumably Italian — dropped explosives at Haifa, a seaport of British-mandated Palestine. Several casualties resulted.

In the sharpening conflict in Africa, the British garrison at Moyale, Kenya colony, besieged by Italian troops since last Wednesday, was reported still holding out despite heavy bombardment day and night.

The Italian high command coincidentally, asserted two British submarines and a destroyer were sunk in week-end naval operations in the Mediterranean and also claimed 10 British planes were shot down and that Italian planes machine-gunned British troops near Buna East Africa.

The German high command reported bombing attacks on British port facilities airports and armament industries

Fires and explosions were observed the communique said particularly at Faversham, which served as a secret base for British "Q-boats" — anti-submarine craft, often disguised as fishing boats—in the World war

Nazi planes slashed at British convoys in the English channel, the high command reported, and sunk three merchantmen totaling 17,000 tons. A British destroyer, an auxiliary cruiser and four other merchant ships were also reported damaged by bombs.

ISOLATION: Anti-War Plank Formed By Senatorial Group

By WILLIAM H. LAWRENCE

CHICAGO — (UP) — Five Isolationist senators today drafted a strong anti-war platform plank which they will insist that the Democratic resolution committee accept. It asserts that the United States cannot reform Europe by force, and made no reference to President Roosevelt's policy of material aid to Great Britain.

Senators Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, Pat McCarran of Nevada, D. Worth Clark of Idaho, and Ed Johnson of Colorado threatened a fight on the convention floor if the platform writers do not grant substantially what they demand.

Their plank would pledge the Democratic party not to use American armed forces in a war of aggression or send American soldiers to wars in Europe or Asia It would reaffirm the principles of the Monroe doctrine against foreign encroachments in the western hemisphere, and oppose attempts by nations of this hemisphere to "dictate or control the affairs of others."

This was the substance of what Mr. Roosevelt pledged to congress last week and there was little likelihood of opposition except, perhaps, to the wording.

Wheeler and his associates place their proposal before the resolutions committee when it

COLLAPSE: Move Fails To Oust Committeeman Sawyer

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati today was unanimously re-elected Democratic national committeeman from Ohio, and Mrs. Mildred Jaster of Columbus was unanimously re-elected national committeewoman.

By F. J. STARZEL

CHICAGO—(AP)—The collapse of a movement to block Charles Sawyer's reelection as Ohio Democratic national committeeman today left only routine matters confronting a caucus of Buckeye delegates to the party's national convention here.

A spokesman for Francis Poulson, leader of the group opposing the Cincinnatian asserted it was decided last night "to give up the fight" after some delegates were found "wavering" from a pledge to support Walter F. Heer, Franklin county Democratic chairman A deciding factor, the spokesman reported, was reluctance of Cleveland district delegates to oppose Sawyer

Poulson's decision apparently assured the re-election without opposition of Sawyer and of Mrs. Mildred Jaster as national committeewoman. With the collapse, several delegates from the Poulson bloc hastened to jump on the Sawyer bandwagon, at least three claiming credit for a "harmony movement."

Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination Sawyer asserted Poulson could not have obtained commitments from a majority of the 52 Ohio delegates and estimated his opposition's probable strength at four Sawyer's election as chairman of the Buckeye delegation also was conceded should he desire it, and it was presumed the group would name former U S Sen Robert J Bulkley to the convention resolutions committee.

Delegates on hand for today's caucus included Martin L. Davey, the party's nominee for governor, who insisted he had taken no part in the Sawyer-Poulson fight.

"I am here as a delegate and to say 'amen' to what the convention decides," said Davey, who lost the gubernatorial nomination to Sawyer in 1938. On all other matters, no comment."

Mayor Urges 5-Year One-Mill Tax Levy

Proposes to Submit Measure to Voters In Fall; Would Distribute Funds Among Five City Departments

Advocating a policy of keeping the city on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, Mayor William J. Locke today proposed submitting a one-mill levy at the November election to finance increased operations of five city departments. The levy would be in effect for five years if approved, under the mayor's plan

Back from a Canadian fishing trip, the mayor said he would consult this week with heads of the various departments to determine the needs of each.

Fire and police departments repeatedly have requested additional manpower and the parks and municipal airport are in need of extensive improvements, the mayor pointed out. Funds for maintaining the city playgrounds have been exhausted Locke will call the heads of these five departments for consultation.

"With several departments in need of additional finances and levies suggested to raise the money I believe more could be accomplished by grouping them all together and having a com-

READY: Britain Bides Time Until She Takes Offensive

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Britain, ready for a long war and waiting for the day when she can seize the offensive, ordered today the removal of 8,500 more children from southeastern coastal areas in anticipation of the German invasion which Prime Minister Churchill told the nation to expect anytime

Even as plans were rushed to get the children to inland havens German bombers continued their feeling-out process

Fatal bombs rained on a south coast town A brief communique said the raiders destroyed some houses and caused a small number of casualties, 'some of which were fatal"

A German attacker dropped four bombs over Wales, three of the missiles falling in the water and the fourth without damage on open ground.

The Thames conservancy board discussed defense of the vital river gateway to London at a secret session The board chairman disclosed it was aiding the war office in damming "certain rivers."

Great Britain, "a great nation with a will power" the equal of Germany's, is ready for a long war and waiting for the day, even if it should not come until 1942, when she can take the offensive herself

So Prime Minister Churchill informed the world last night in a "fight talk" picturing Britain as

TRUTH: Belgians Say They Lost War To Superior Force

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The Belgian embassy issued a "sketch of the operations of the Belgian army" today in which it said its defeat was a result of being attacked by superior forces and better equipped units

There is no need to lie and find sensational explanations such as betrayals and treason which are not supported by facts" the embassy said

"Like the French the British armies, the Belgian army was defeated because it was attacked by superior forces and better equipped units and because the enemy made use of tactical schemes which none of the Allied armies were ready to meet."

The statement described movements of the Belgian army from the day the German blitzkrieg began May 10 until King Leopold, 18 days later ordered his men to cease firing

The embassy's statement of the last days of the Belgian stand follows

"On May 24th, the Germans broke through on both sides of Courtrai Germany has been hurled reserves, the Belgian troops which at the time were protected by Allied air forces

All Belgian units were exhausted by two weeks of uninterrupted fighting

On May 27th the last three battalions held in reserve were put in line The Belgian army is thus encircled together with

'Strong Man of Cuba' Takes Presidential Election

BATISTA WINS OVER GRAU IN RIOTOUS VOTE

New Chief of State Picked Own Rival for Campaign as Opposition Best.

(By Associated Press)

HAVANA — Fulgencio Batista, who once gained a narrow fame as the best stenographer in the Cuban army, appeared today to have won election as president of the country.

In voting yesterday, marked by scattered violence in which four persons were killed, Batista was credited unofficially with gaining a three to two, or better, margin of victory over former President Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin.

The president-elect is scheduled to take office next Oct. 1 for a four-year term. He cannot succeed himself.

Cubans acknowledged that actually the 39-year-old peasant-born Batista could have taken over the presidency at any time since he led Cuba's classic "revolt of the six sergeants" Sept. 4, 1933.

Instead, he chose for more than five years to remain the head of Cuba's armed forces.

Only last December, Batista resigned from the army and dropped his title of colonel to become a candidate for the presidency—to find out how he stood with Cuba's 2,000,000 voters.

Batista was supported by seven political parties and Dr. Grau by three. Dr. Grau, a 58-year-old aristocrat and intellectual, had remained a candidate only at the personal request of Batista, who deemed him the best the opposition could offer.

The Cuban strong man and his Junta named Dr. Grau to the presidency when they first came to power but he resigned in January, 1934, after disagreements.

Dr. Grau in recent months headed the Cuban constituent assembly, which drafted a new constitution for the nation, providing for various social reforms and for a premier to be named by the president. A militaryman may not be president, with the especial exception of Batista.

Besides the death of four persons in election disorders, more than a score were wounded. Some voting booths were burned, some telephone wires cut and a bridge or two destroyed.

Official election returns will not be available for a day or two.

"Our real danger is not the Nazis or Communists at large in this country but in the fact that too many people, finding their personal situations too difficult to cope with, won't care under what form of government they live," the nation's "first lady" declared.

WILLKIE WAITS SELECTION OF PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN FOE

COLORADO SPRINGS—(INS)—While the Democratic convention opened today in Chicago, Wendell Willkie pursued as common and even tenor of life as can any presidential candidate who is not certain who his opponent will be.

With a big day behind him on the Gunnison river, Willkie planned to rest today and had no scheduled program.

Yesterday, the Republican candidate chewed Colorado dust in a long drive to the annual fish fry at Almont, shook hands in Hartsel and Halida and bumped back to his vacation spot by plane through a Rocky mountain storm.

At Almont, a tiny recreation and fishing spot on the Gunnison river, the candidate ate four Colorado trout while Mrs. Willkie confessed to eating three.

Then, with a crowd of 9,000 persons standing around the log cabin railroad station, the candidate spoke with the neighbors.

"I am not going to make a speech," he said, "because I have promised myself that I will not make a formal speech until my formal acceptance. But let me say this—you visualize America to me. You are the kind of people I grew up with. The America you represent must be preserved."

U. S. EXPORTS OF FOOD DROP ON BLOCKADE

Russia Increases Imports to Prepare for Eventuality of Nazi Movements.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The threat of famine hanging over untold millions of war refugees abroad became more appalling today when the U. S. government reported that "present indications point toward the smallest wheat harvest in Europe in the past decade."

At the same time, the government, through its department of agriculture, disclosed that American exports of food to countries in Europe's war theater had dropped $124,000,000 during the first nine months of the war. This meant, it was said, that Europe was not only tightening its belt by food rationing but that its food stocks would be dangerously low going into the winter.

Further, the agricultural bulletin reported that Russian imports of wheat have increased 121 per cent. Again, according to diplomatic circles in Washington, this meant two things:

1. That Russia was storing food in preparation for war, fearing Germany might turn and attack if once the Nazis own food supplies run low.

2. The crop in Russia, which usually exports large quantities of wheat, will be kept for consumption there and not sold to other European countries.

Thus, countries with a total population of some 250,000,000 face a possible wheat deficiency which, coupled with a known shortage in meat and other food staples, raises the prospect of widespread hunger, if not starvation.

Semi-official reports to Washington already have revealed that 35,000,000 in Poland are facing actual starvation, 70,000,000 others in conquered countries are depending on what Germany will allow them to have, and 150,000,000 other Europeans are confronted with tightening of food rations.

According to the Department of Agriculture announcement today, the wheat harvest in Europe this fall will be about 1,360,000,000 bushels, compared to a 1939 yield of 1,700,000,000 bushels and a 1930-1940 average harvest of about 1,500,000,000 bushels. Or, in other words, the harvest will be 25 per cent smaller than last year's big crop and 10 per cent below an average crop.

Five factors were blamed: (1) A severe winter; (2) an unusually late spring; (3) floods during growing season; (4) military operations; and (5) sudden and extended mobilization of man power. It added that military operations "notably in western Europe resulted in considerable damage to many fields."

Speaking For Myself.

Nothing about the forthcoming theatrical season disturbs me quite so much as the news that Helen Hayes, the First Lady of the Theater, has decided to star in "Twelfth Night," and my disappointment in this selection of a vehicle is exceeded only by my curiosity as to why she chose it.

Certainly, much as I hesitate to classify the Bard, it is Grade B Shakespeare; and the part of Viola is scarcely a role that requires a performer as fine as Miss Hayes. It does allow her to wear tights and romp about in boy's attire, but I have never considered Miss Hayes an actress so whimsical that she would elect to play a part merely because it gave her a chance to show her legs.

From a purely box-office viewpoint, it strikes me that in these historically gloomy times, audiences want either rampantly escapist comedies and musical girl-shows, or they want significant contemporary drama.

And from the viewpoint of artistic duty, it occurs to me, that in an era such as this the fine performers of the only free and living stage on the face of the earth ought to find something more vital to say than speeches, however iambic, from a hand-me-down comedy of mistaken identity.

Miss Hayes can be excused for lending her sterling abilities to the play, she starred in last season, because it was written by her husband—but what did Shakespeare ever do for her?

Night club shows with guest stars would be awfully entertaining if only they wouldn't have the same guest stars guesting every time. I think Bob Hope's picture, "The Ghostbreakers" is the funniest film I've seen since "The Awful Truth." . . . Funny how all junk shop windows and all pawn shop windows look alike. They must get the same window-dresser to do them from one end of town to the other.

I've never tried an ouija board—I've never seen one . . . I love the Steeplechase Park trademark—that wonderful gay man with the perpetual ear-to-ear smile.

It seems to me there are more lads with you-all accents behind the Broadway drug store soda fountains than there are in Norcross, Ga. . . . Names of Dutch pastries in the Holland House fascinate me as much as the delicacies themselves do: Botor Sprits, Janhagel, Kletskoppen, and Allerhanden. . . .

I never knew until the other a. m. when I was passing by that it takes six bus boys with chisels to scrape off the chewing gum on the sidewalk in front of the Broadway Automat. They do it daily, out of pure civic-mindedness.

I loved that film "The Scoundrel." Everytime it's revived, I go to see it again. . . . I've just been informed that whereas Jimmy Durante's nose is the largest in town, the smallest proboscis in the Times Square area belongs to Betsy Berkeley, of the Diamond Horseshoe, whose schnozzle is so small it's really hard to find. . . . My idea of no fun: A Mexican election.

It's wonderful how far you can ride on the subway for a nickel, if you like riding on the subway. . . . I like Allen Prescott's comment on radio commercials. He says they're not blurbs, they're filibusters. . . . With his characterizations in "All This, and Heaven Too" and "My Love Came Back," Jeffry Lynn is certainly becoming the adult Little Lord Fauntleroy. . . . Cinematically speaking, he couldn't be sweeter.

I love listening to the horse-players around Lindy's bemoaning their luck. They always sound as if they believed a lagging horse was personally squaring an old family grudge. . . . I think men should wear garters.

All over New York there are wonderful examples of human devotion to trivia. For example, Lum Fong's 52nd street pagoda gives chopstick lessons to occidentals on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, and has a left-handed waiter to instruct southpaw patrons!

I am very bored by people who go to the zoo and look at the animals and say: "I bet we look as funny to them. I'll give 8 to 5 we don't. . . .

I love fireworks, but I wish they'd stay up in the sky longer. Just when I see a wonderful pattern of pink and gold sparkle, it shatters against the night and falls apart and dissolves.

Jumper dresses always make me think of the days when I was in the first grade. . . . It's strange to walk down Broadway on Sunday afternoon when all the Gothamites are away and the summer sightseers are in charge of the Great White Way. . . . Funny sight in the Big City is watching the Radio City gardeners mowing the lawn on the 7th story terrace—the suburban touch on the chin of a skyscraper.

I wonder how many wives the Hays office is going to take away from Brigham Young when the movies film the life of the famous Mormon. Lillian Russell had two husbands taken away from her when Mr. Zanuck did her biography—I wonder how many of Mr. Young's 26 wives will have to be subtracted for the censors.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Maryland" Screenplay by Ethel Hill and Jack Andrews. Directed by Henry King. Principals: Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Brenda Joyce, John Payne, Charles Ruggles, Hattie McDaniel, Marjorie Weaver, Sidney Blackmer, Ben Carter.

Two years ago 20th Century-Fox threw a technicolor spotlight on horse-racing in "Kentucky," giving Walter Brennan a role with which he copped an academy award. The present essay does the same for "Maryland" but throws the plum to one Ben Carter, or lets him take it.

Aside from the technicolor beauties of wood, field and stream, the excitement and color of fox hunts and the climactic race, "Maryland" travels well-worn paths, innocuously and pleasantly leading up to the Big Race. What lifts it above routine are the sequences assigned to Carter and his Negro fellow actors who play a generous part in the plot and give it a needed shot in the arm.

Carter does only a few scenes as "Uncle Old Jack Tucker," stage Shoalraven the surrogate dies with the stroke of Heaven's chariot, left cook in the Maryland manor of Charlotte Fairfield (Bainter). Charlotte is a hoity-toity horse-breeder turned against horses by the racing accident which killed her husband. She clears out her stable and dismisses her trainer (Brennan) who sets up his own farm and with the help of Charlotte's daughter (Joyce) and her suitor (Payne) proceeds to train a champion.

Mr. Carter's acting and song [illegible] precipitate conflict on the big question of song rights. Uncle Bob's prize entry in the Maryland Hunt Cup race.

This is all well enough but of a sprightly drop-your-worries "Maryland" really comes to life, movie-when Shoalrach is seduced by Dogface's rattling dice, losing Uncle Bob's burial society premium, and in desperation turns to shouting religion. The picture runs the risk of offending here, but the sequences of Shoalrach's salvation are nevertheless a mot of comedy and the 'salvation' provides a good plot twist.

The production, filmed at its last meeting is exciting and beautiful. Both Carter and company are stellar. Of the rest of the show, Carter, the story is an actor only by courtesy. His real business is [illegible] and he collected fees from most of the Negro players in the film.

'And, Hang Meets Debutante'—Nicky Rooney, Lewis Stone, Fay Holden, Cecelia Parker, Judy Garland, Ann Rutherford, Diana Lewis.

Best of the recent Hardy Family tale—this one has Andy in a spot involving him his claim that he knows only glamour girl. Its cast, script and treatment of [illegible] comedy and slight [illegible] service elements of recent Hardys, which is to the good. Garland, with a couple of songs and a good role, adds considerably to the entertainment quota of a sprightly drop-your-worries

Winning the first game easily, the Mansfield team was pressed hard in the second, with the Attica lads matching the Nicks hit for hit and forcing the contest into an extra inning.

But the Nicks managed the runs in the extra frame through the error of McMullen, Nicks second baseman, poled a home run in the inning with three men on to win the ball game.

Softballers Hand Siler Hatchery Combine Double Defeat, 11-3 and 9-3

IT BEGINS to look like the undefeated Sons of Herman softball club will have to search far and wide throughout the state for worthy opponents in future contests.

The powerful Mansfield combine scribbled victories No. 10 and 11 into the record books yesterday with a double win over the Ashland Siler Hatchery team before some 500 spectators at Liberty park.

Freddie Carver handled the mound assignment in the initial tussle and emerged with a 11 to 3 decision and Jimmy Fullager followed him to the hill in the night cap to chalk up a 9 to 3 triumph.

Manager Frank Beeber's classy outfit has beaten all comers in Mansfield circles and has marked up impressive wins over Massillon, Lorain and Sycamore teams.

George Hummel, Frank Balbaugh, and Harry Ross shared the hitting spotlight for the Hermans yesterday, with Hummel getting the only home run in the two games. Hummel's homer came in the sixth inning of the first contest with Balbaugh and Carver on the bags.

Ross got a double in the first game and a triple and a double in the second, while Balbaugh had three singles out of four trips to the plate in the first fracas and two singles out of two trips in the second.

In the first setto the Silers held the Hermans to a 2 to 2 tie until the third frame when the Hermans jumped into the lead with three runs. The Ashlanders scored only one run after the first inning, while the Mansfielders piled up six in the sixth frame to sew up the contest.

In the second contest the Hermans pushed over two runs in the first and led the Silers throughout the seven innings. They scored one more in the fourth and six in the fifth for their nine-run total.

Double Victory Helps Reds to Increase Lead

Turner, Moore Turn Back Phils; Cincy Leads By Two-and-a-Half Games.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The rampant Reds were out to lengthen their National league lead at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Phils again today, after proving again that the surest way of sparking them to victory is doubling the stakes.

Rookie Johnny Hutchings was down for an opportunity to try his fast one against the offerings of Ike Pearson, picked off the campus of the University of Missouri last season, for the Phils. If Hutchings doesn't hold the Prothro charges ace hurler Bucky Walters will try for his 13th victory.

The Reds marked up their eighth double header triumph of the year with 3-2 and 7-1 victories over Philadelphia yesterday. In the first encounter Milkman Jim Turner allowed 10 hits but counted his sixth win of the season.

Two first inning home runs, Lonnie Frey's eighth and Ernie Lombardi's ninth of the season, gave the Reds three runs, all that was necessary for the first victory, before Kirby Higbe stopped them. The Phils marked up a run in the second and another in the third.

Lloyd Moore's four-hit triumph in the nightcap was his third of the season against two setbacks. With the exception of the fourth round, when the Phils bunched two hits and a pair of walks for their lone tally, Moore didn't allow a Philadelphia player to reach second.

The Reds counted a run in the second and another in the third off Walter Beck before he was carried from the field after being struck in the groin by a ball which Willard Hershberger lined through the mound. Cincinnati batters got another off Clyde Smoll before the stanza ended.

The Reds ran up four more runs, three on wild throws and one on Bill Werber's double.

Indians Seek Remedy For Newest 'Jinx'

Boudreau Solves "Third Spot" Problem, But Tribe Leaves Too Many Runners On Base.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' search for someone to fill the troublesome third spot in the batting order appears ended today but the best Tribal brains are plagued by another knotty matter: the left on bases jinx.

Shortstop Lou Boudreau, dropped from leadoff man to No. 3 at the start of the Indians' current eastern invasion, effectively cured all the headaches formerly attached to that flagpost by personally driving in four runs yesterday. The performance meant almost, but not quite, the margin of victory and the Redskins lost an 11-inning contest to the Senators, 6 to 5.

The defeat cost Cleveland a chance for a two-game lead over second-place Detroit, who lost a doubleheader to Philadelphia and descended a half-game in the league ladder. It also gave relief hurler Joe Dobson his fifth loss of the season while leaving the veteran Al Smith, replaced in the ninth, still at the top of the Indian mound staff with nine wins and two losses intact. Nine Indians died on the paths.

Trailing for eight innings, the Nats counted two runs in the ninth to tie the count with Ken Keltner permitting the second by booting Johnny Welaj's grounder. Outfielder Buddy Lewis broke up the game in the 11th with a smash down the left field foul line after the Senators had filled the sacks.

Today's second game of the series brought southpaw Al Milnar, seeking his 13th victory to the mound against either Joe Krakauskas, another lefthander, or Sid Hudson, who obliged the Indians by knocking Detroit out of first place a few days ago.

Champ Stages 'Desperation' Workout as Bout Time Nears

By JACK CUDDY

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y.—(AP)—Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong, principal in one of the ring's most fascinating mysteries, went through a "desperation" workout today as final preparation for Wednesday night's battle with Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins.

* * *

Probably never before in pugilistic history have a champ and a fighter been watched as closely as ring-time approached. The men who write of mail and the men who bet on blows are trying to decide whether the great Armstrong is virtually "washed up" or merely participating in one of fistiana's most flagrant plots to lower the betting odds.

[illegible] Armstrong appeared [illegible] compared to the great [illegible] and [illegible] frames crown in 1938. He was missing punches, careless on defense and lacking in the exchanges.

This performance, coupled with previous bad showings, baffled veteran fight observers among the crowd of 700 fans who watched the workout. Most sophisticates of sock figured that artful Eddie Mead, who has week after of placing weights for Armstrong is still trying to put over a betting coup by trying to hamper down the odds to 7-5 or 8-5 (wooing Armstrong, and then plunge.

The price now is about 2-1, since bookies are laying 9-5 against a Jenkins victory, and taking 11 to 5 against Armstrong scoring a knock out, and 3-1 against Jenkins belting out the bull-shouldered Los Angeles Negro.

Frankie Ankenbrandt Joins Mansfield Again.

A familiar face will appear in the Mansfield Braves lineup tonight when the club meets Fremont at the Fairground. Frankie Ankenbrandt, star third sacker last season, who suffered a nose injury early this spring will play second base. Manager Dewey Stover announced at noon today. Frankie replaces Hal Hundemer, who suffered a thumb injury in the first game against Findlay yesterday. Frankie was hit on the nose by a pitched ball and was in General hospital several weeks before he left for his home in Detroit. He has been working out with Warren of the Penn State league for several days.

Arnold, Laurila Unable to Halt Findlay Oilers

Braves Bow, 8-5, and 5-4, At Findlay; Play Before "Eagles" Gathering At Fair Park.

By CHARLES MARTIN

SOMETHING Manager Dewey Stover thought he wouldn't have to worry about the rest of the season came up to haunt the Mansfield Braves camp again today — pitching weakness.

The Braves, fighting to overtake the second-place Findlay Oilers in the Ohio State league race, sent two aces to the hill at Findlay yesterday and both suffered defeats.

Bob Arnold worked the first game, and, although his teammates staked him to an early lead, he failed to hold it and dropped an 8 to 5 verdict. George Laurila came along in the nightcap and lost another early lead to fall by a 5 to 4 count.

Either Rex Benton, who won a three-hitter the last time out, or Alex Radoumis is expected to get the call to face Fremont before an "Eagles night" gathering at the Fairground at 8:30 p. m. today.

Arnold, mainstay of the Braves hurling corps, suffered his fourth loss of the season yesterday. He has won nine games.

Mansfield jicked up a 5 to 1 lead in the fourth, but the advantage was not enough to enable Arnold to emerge the winner.

Findlay punched over single scores in the third and fourth, added two in the fifth, one each in the sixth and seventh and two more in the eighth.

Abney was shaky against the Braves the first three frames, but after Walt Missler hit a home run with a mate aboard in the third the Findlay moundsman settled down to hurl shutout ball.

Howard Beals, Stover and Gene Woodling led the Braves at the plate in the opener with two hits apiece. Jackson was the batting star for Findlay with two doubles and a pair of singles in five official trips to the platter.

It was practically the same story in the seven-inning nightcap. The Braves tallied three times in the second to take a 3-0 lead, but the Oilers, out to cut down the Lima Pandas' first-place lead, came back with a trio of markers in the fifth to gain an advantage they held to the finish.

A highlight of the second tilt was the spectacular hitting of Woodling. The left fielder pounded out two doubles and as many singles in four trips at bat. Woodling is the one bright spot in the Braves hitting department. He is pacing the club in the individual batting with a .356 per cent mark.

Tuesday the Braves are at Tiffin and return to the Fair park to tackle the Mudhens Wednesday. The Wednesday game will be played before a "American Legion night" crowd.

Ralph Hughes, who is the general chairman of the affair, stated today that he expects a large attendance for the contest. The Legion Drum Corps will stage a parade before the game.

* * *

A preliminary attraction Wednesday will send the American Legion Junior baseball team against the Shelby Legion Juniors at 7:15 p. m. Manager Dewey Durant's Legion club won the right to participate in the state tournament with a win over Shelby Saturday.

Peterson Tops Spear to Win Tennis Crown

The youthful net ace defeated Bob Spear in the finals staged on the Woodlawn court yesterday.

Peterson, who replaces Bob Keefe as champion, turned back Spear in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1 and 6-3.

Peterson will team with Enos Moore to tackle Slabaugh and Bourns in the doubles championship match at the Woodlawn court Saturday. The doubles were to be played yesterday.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—If my ears were two inches longer, or if I had a single fetlock to my name, I would go into the strictest sort of training today to compete for the $50,000 New York handicap which will be run at Belmont Park on Oct. 5.

* * *

The New York handicap is the latest idea to blossom in the mental garden of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a young man of Manhattan who is a dead cinch to retain his title of "America's foremost young sportsman" as long as his money holds out.

The New York handicap may seem just like another new horse race to you, what with its conditions that call for three-year-olds and upwards, weight on a basis of handicaps, all to start from a gate, and all to run in the same direction, and all to be ridden by jockeys.

But here is the catch about the New York handicap—and when I say catch I mean catch. It is to be run over a piece of ground that measures two and a quarter miles. To give you a true picture of just exactly how long two and a quarter miles is, let me say that it is roughly as far as Clark Gable's salary is from mine, as far as Clark Gable's face is from mine, and as far as Clark Gable's ears are from his head.

I am not quite sure that there are enough horses in this country who can run two and a quarter miles to make up a field for the New York handicap. Horses, that is, capable of doing the distance in a time that would make it possible to start and finish the race on the same day.

American race horses have specialized in sprints and mile runs for so long that they probably would call on John L. Lewis or William Green for help if asked to go much farther without time and a half for overtime. The horse, to be quite honest about the matter, has forgotten that he used to be bred for endurance instead of speed, and that once upon a time his value was reckoned on how far and how fast he could go, instead of just how fast.

There are a few scattered long distance races held in this country, principally at Agua Caliente. But the purses of the Caliente races are as cheap as the horses that run in them. Any Caliente horse that wins with a time under 15 minutes is given an extra portion of oats, has his mane and tail braided, and is treated to a double feature movie.

Jimmy Stout Paces Field

Former Champ Shoots a 69 At Possum Run.

Cracking out a par-shattering 69 for the 18 holes, Jimmy Stout paced the field yesterday at the Possum Run links.

Stout, who is a former Possum Run champion, strolled the fairways three strokes under the par 72. The best score this season for the 18 at Possum was established by Joe Mayer last Sunday, when he went the route for a 66, or six under par.

Pressing Stout close for yesterday's scoring honors was Al Kushin, who chalked up a 70 for the 18. Kushin got a 35 on the inside nine and a 35 on the outside.

Carl Kushin came off with next best honors by getting a 71 for the full route. Pete Linster, number one man on the Richland Printing foursome, winners of The News-Journal class "A" golf league last year, marked up a 72 for an even par.

* * *

No low scores were turned in at Westbrook yesterday, despite the record crowd that inhabited the Springmill street fairways.

Johnny Heads For Majors

Vander Meer Shows Top Form in Association.

(By Associated Press)

It doesn't take a major prophet to see that young Johnny Vander Meer is headed back to the big leagues if he maintains the winning form he has shown since joining Indianapolis of the American association.

Vander Meer did his share toward lifting the Indians out of the league cellar Sunday with a shutout victory over Milwaukee, 8 to 0. Indianapolis went on to win the second game, too, 5 to 2, as Bob Logan won his 13th of the season.

Vander Meer gave up 10 hits and walked five batters, but was steady in the pinches, striking out nine batters. He also knocked in three runs.

Louisville slid from third place to fourth by dropping a twin bill to league-leading Kansas City 5 to 4 and 8 to 1.

Minneapolis, trailing the Blues by five and a half games, braced to defeat Toledo twice, 5 to 2 and 9 to 1.

Columbus moved into third place by trouncing St. Paul in both ends of a twin bill, 9 to 8 and 8 to 0.

Veterans Will Get Awards

American Association Will Honor Men at All-Star Tilt.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Two of baseball's outstanding veterans will receive special recognition at the American association's seventh annual all-star game in Kansas City Wednesday night.

League President George M. Trautman will present engraved watches to George A. Barton, baseball writer for 37 years and now sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, and William J. Guthrie, now serving his 36th season as an umpire.

Guthrie's experience includes service in the major leagues and all three of the AA loops—American association, international league and Pacific Coast league. Now in his eighth season on the American association's umpiring corps, Guthrie will be umpire-in-chief for the all-star game although four other arbiters have been assigned to active duty.

A record crowd is expected to see the all-stars, managed by Tom Sheehan of Minneapolis, meet the Kansas City Blues for the second straight year. Last year's 16,521 fans set a new high mark.

Injuries probably will keep two of the all-star first string out of the lineup. Dick West, Indianapolis catcher who sprained his ankle Thursday night, forfeited his berth to Walker Cooper of Columbus, while Bob Reis of St. Paul likely will replace his teammate, Gil English, at third base.

Merchants Manage Easy Victory

Mansfield's Merchant Girls managed on easy victory over the Bon Oil company combine of Cuyahoga Falls yesterday by outpointing the visitors 11 to 3 at the North Lake park diamond.

Clark was on the rubber for the Mansfielders, allowing the Oilers only five hits and striking out five.

Cantor of the visiting club and Herrick, Merchant second baseman, shared batting honors. Cantor got a triple and Herrick a double. These were the only hits better than a single in the contest.

Stage Battle For 1st Place

Charleston Climbs From 4th to Challenging Position.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Charleston's bound from fourth place to the challenging position featured week-end developments in the Mid-Atlantic league pennant race.

The sturdy Senators swept a four-game series from the Canton Terriers and stretched their victory string to five by winning last night's encounter, 5 to 3, although outhit, 8 to 10.

The first-place Akron Yankees, meanwhile, dropped to a full two and a half game advantage over Charleston by splitting a twin bill with the Dayton Wings. Dayton won the wild, 10-inning first game, 8 to 7, and Akron took the seven-inning finale, 10 to 7.

Portsmouth moved out of the cellar, two percentage points over Dayton, by whipping Youngstown in another 10-inning contest, 9 to 8.

McNEILL GRABS CROWN FROM GUERNSEY'S HEAD

NEW YORK—(AP)—Another of Frank Guernsey's tennis crowns is sitting jauntily atop Don McNeill's blonde head today.

Two weeks ago McNeill, the Kenyon college hero who is ranked No. 3 nationally, took over the intercollegiate singles tilt that Guernsey wasn't able to defend, and today McNeill is possessor of the New York State Clay Court championship. Don won it by beating Frank, the defending titleholder, yesterday in a non-spirited battle, 6-1, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

Double Victory Helps Reds to Increase Lead

Turner, Moore Turn Back Phils; Cincy Leads By Two-and-a-Half Games.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The rampant Reds were out to lengthen their National league lead at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Phils again today, after proving again that the surest way of sparking them to victory is doubling the stakes.

Rookie Johnny Hutchings was down for an opportunity to try his fast one against the offerings of Ike Pearson, picked off the campus of the University of Missouri last season, for the Phils. If Hutchings doesn't hold the Prothro charges ace hurler Bucky Walters will try for his 13th victory.

The Reds marked up their eighth double header triumph of the year with 3-2 and 7-1 victories over Philadelphia yesterday. In the first encounter Milkman Jim Turner allowed 10 hits but counted his sixth win of the season.

Two first inning home runs, Lonnie Frey's eighth and Ernie Lombardi's ninth of the season, gave the Reds three runs, all that was necessary for the first victory, before Kirby Higbe stopped them. The Phils marked up a run in the second and another in the third.

Lloyd Moore's four-hit triumph in the nightcap was his third of the season against two setbacks. With the exception of the fourth round, when the Phils bunched two hits and a pair of walks for their lone tally, Moore didn't allow a Philadelphia player to reach second.

The Reds counted a run in the second and another in the third off Walter Beck before he was carried from the field after being struck in the groin by a ball which Willard Hershberger lined through the mound. Cincinnati batters got another off Clyde Smoll before the stanza ended.

The Reds ran up four more runs, three on wild throws and one on Bill Werber's double.

Despite triples by Cashell and Zacharias, the Barnes Challengers fell before the 5-hit pitching of Dale McKinley as the Alta Lumbers romped over the manufacturers, 12 to 3.

McKinley went the full route for the Lumbers, striking out eight Barnes' batters out of the 32 who faced him. Karsinski also went the route for the Challengers, allowing the Altas 14 hits.

Cashell and Zacharias of the Barnes club led their team in hitting with triples, while Woerth paced the Altas with a pair of doubles. Boyd and Schadek, also of the Lumbers, got a double apiece.

Double Victory Helps Reds to Increase Lead

Turner, Moore Turn Back Phils; Cincy Leads By Two-and-a-Half Games.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The rampant Reds were out to lengthen their National league lead at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Phils again today, after proving again that the surest way of sparking them to victory is doubling the stakes.

Rookie Johnny Hutchings was down for an opportunity to try his fast one against the offerings of Ike Pearson, picked off the campus of the University of Missouri last season, for the Phils. If Hutchings doesn't hold the Prothro charges ace hurler Bucky Walters will try for his 13th victory.

The Reds marked up their eighth double header triumph of the year with 3-2 and 7-1 victories over Philadelphia yesterday. In the first encounter Milkman Jim Turner allowed 10 hits but counted his sixth win of the season.

Two first inning home runs, Lonnie Frey's eighth and Ernie Lombardi's ninth of the season, gave the Reds three runs, all that was necessary for the first victory, before Kirby Higbe stopped them. The Phils marked up a run in the second and another in the third.

Lloyd Moore's four-hit triumph in the nightcap was his third of the season against two setbacks. With the exception of the fourth round, when the Phils bunched two hits and a pair of walks for their lone tally, Moore didn't allow a Philadelphia player to reach second.

The Reds counted a run in the second and another in the third off Walter Beck before he was carried from the field after being struck in the groin by a ball which Willard Hershberger lined through the mound. Cincinnati batters got another off Clyde Smoll before the stanza ended.

The Reds ran up four more runs, three on wild throws and one on Bill Werber's double.

Indians Seek Remedy For Newest 'Jinx'

Boudreau Solves "Third Spot" Problem, But Tribe Leaves Too Many Runners On Base.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' search for someone to fill the troublesome third spot in the batting order appears ended today but the best Tribal brains are plagued by another knotty matter—the left on bases jinx.

Shortstop Lou Boudreau, dropped from leadoff man to No. 3 at the start of the Indians' current eastern invasion, effectively cured all the headaches formerly attached to that flagpost by personally driving in four runs yesterday. The performance meant almost, but not quite, the margin of victory and the Redskins lost an 11-inning contest to the Senators, 6 to 5.

The defeat cost Cleveland a chance for a two-game lead over second-place Detroit, who lost a doubleheader to Philadelphia and descended a half-game in the league ladder. It also gave relief hurler Joe Dobson his fifth loss of the season while leaving the veteran Al Smith, replaced in the ninth, still at the top of the Indian mound staff with nine wins and two losses intact. Nine Indians died on the paths.

Trailing for eight innings, the Nats counted two runs in the ninth to tie the count with Ken Keltner permitting the second by booting Johnny Welaj's grounder. Outfielder Buddy Lewis broke up the game in the 11th with a smash down the left field foul line after the Senators had filled the sacks.

Today's second game of the series brought southpaw Al Milnar, seeking his 13th victory to the mound against either Joe Krakauskas, another lefthander, or Sid Hudson, who obliged the Indians by knocking Detroit out of first place a few days ago.

Champ Stages 'Desperation' Workout as Bout Time Nears

BY JACK CUDDY

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP) Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong, principal in one of the ring's most fascinating mysteries, went through a "desperation" workout today as final preparation for Wednesday night's battle with Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins.

* * *

Probably never before in pugilistic history have a champ and a fighter been watched as closely as ring-time approached. The men who write of mauling and the men who bet on blows are trying to decide whether the great Armstrong is virtually "washed up" or merely participating in one of fistiana's most flagrant plots to lower the betting odds.

Manager Eddie Mead [illegible] that he is not entirely satisfied with Armstrong's preparations, refused [illegible] to [illegible] training procedure by tossing [illegible] the [illegible] "[illegible] two days [illegible] one of the most important [illegible] of his career. However Mead [illegible] to [illegible] his sparring with yesterday's [illegible]

In these [illegible] Armstrong appeared [illegible] when compared to the [illegible] champion was [illegible] and [illegible] feather champ in 1938. He was missing punches, careless on defense and lacking in the exchanges.

This performance, coupled with previous bad showings, baffled veteran fight observers among the record crowd of 700 fans who watched the workout. Most sophisticates of sock figured that artful Eddie Mead, who last week gave off phony weights for Armstrong, is still trying to get over a betting coup, trying to hammer down the odds to 7-5 or 8-5 favoring Armstrong, and then plunge.

The price now is about 2-1, since bookies are laying 9-5 against a Jenkins victory, and taking 11 to 5 against Armstrong scoring a kayo, and 3-1 against Jenkins belting out the bull-shouldered Los Angeles Negro.

* * *

And [illegible] Tex Cobb, one of Armstrong's sparring [illegible] who has [illegible] more than 100 rounds with Jenkins, came out this morning with the statement: "I wish that I were in there Wednesday night fighting Armstrong. I've been sparring him nearly every day of training and I'll predict that Jenkins knocks him out. In fact I'm betting five bucks on Jenkins—not merely because I'm a Texan but because I figure it can't miss and because I can use the dough."

Arnold, Laurila Unable to Halt Findlay Oilers

Braves Bow, 8-5, and 5-4, At Findlay; Play Before "Eagles" Gathering At Fair Park.

By CHARLES MARTIN

SOMETHING Manager Dewey Stover thought he wouldn't have to worry about the rest of the season came up to haunt the Mansfield Braves camp again today—pitching weakness.

The Braves, fighting to overtake the second-place Findlay Oilers in the Ohio State league race, sent two aces to the hill at Findlay yesterday and both suffered defeats.

Bob Arnold worked the first game, and, although his teammates staked him to an early lead, he failed to hold it and dropped an 8 to 5 verdict. George Laurila came along in the nightcap and lost another early lead to fall by a 5 to 4 count.

Either Rex Benton, who won a three-hitter the last time out, or Alex Radoumis is expected to get the call to face Fremont before an "Eagles night" gathering at the Fairground at 8:30 p. m. today.

Arnold, mainstay of the Braves hurling corps, suffered his fourth loss of the season yesterday. He has won nine games.

Mansfield picked up a 5 to 1 lead in the fourth, but the advantage was not enough to enable Arnold to emerge the winner.

Findlay punched over single scores in the third and fourth, added two in the fifth, one each in the sixth and seventh and two more in the eighth.

Abney was shaky against the Braves the first three frames, but after Walt Missler hit a home run with a mate aboard in the third the Findlay moundsman settled down to hurl shutout ball.

Howard Beals, Stover and Gene Woodling led the Braves at the plate in the opener with two hits apiece. Jackson was the batting star for Findlay with two doubles and a pair of singles in five official trips to the platter.

It was practically the same story in the seven-inning nightcap. The Braves tallied three times in the second to take a 3-0 lead, but the Oilers, out to cut down the Lima Pandas' first-place lead, came back with a trio of markers in the fifth to gain an advantage they held to the finish.

A highlight of the second tilt was the spectacular hitting of Woodling. The left fielder pounded out two doubles and as many singles in four trips at bat. Woodling is the one bright spot in the Braves hitting department. He is pacing the club in the individual batting with a .356 per cent mark.

Tuesday the Braves are at Tiffin and return to the Fair park to tackle the Mudhens Wednesday. The Wednesday game will be played before a "American Legion night" crowd.

Ralph Hughes, who is the general chairman of the affair, stated today that he expects a large attendance for the contest. The Legion Drum Corps will stage a parade before the game.

* * *

A preliminary attraction Wednesday will send the American Legion Junior baseball team against the Shelby Legion Juniors at 7:15 p. m. Manager Dewey Durrant's Legion club won the right to participate in the state tournament with a win over Shelby Saturday.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK —(UP)— If my ears were two inches longer, or if I had a single fetlock to my name, I would go into the strictest sort of training today to compete for the $50,000 New York handicap which will be run at Belmont Park on Oct. 5.

* * *

The New York handicap is the latest idea to blossom in the mental garden of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, a young man of Manhattan who is a dead cinch to retain his title of "America's foremost young sportsman" as long as his money holds out.

The New York handicap may seem just like another new horse race to you, what with its conditions that call for three-year-olds and upwards, weight on a basis of handicaps, all to start from a gate, and all to run in the same direction, and all to be ridden by jockeys.

But here is the catch about the New York handicap—and when I say catch I mean catch. It is to be run over a piece of ground that measures two and a quarter miles. To give you a true picture of just exactly how long two and a quarter miles is, let me say that it is roughly as far as Clark Gable's salary is from mine, as far as Clark Gable's face is from mine, and as far as Clark Gable's ears are from his head.

I am not quite sure that there are enough horses in this country who can run two and a quarter miles to make up a field for the New York handicap. Horses, that is, capable of doing the distance in a time that would make it possible to start and finish the race on the same day.

American race horses have specialized in sprints and mile runs for so long that they probably would call on John L. Lewis or William Green for help if asked to go much farther without time and a half for overtime. The horse, to be quite honest about the matter, has forgotten that he used to be bred for endurance instead of speed, and that once upon a time his value was reckoned on how far and how fast he could go, instead of just how fast.

There are a few scattered long distance races held in this country, principally at Agua Caliente. But the purses of the Caliente races are as cheap as the horses that run in them. Any Caliente horse that wins with a time under 15 minutes is given an extra portion of oats, has his mane and tail braided and is treated to a double feature movie.

Jimmy Stout Paces Field

Former Champ Shoots a 69 At Possum Run.

Cracking out a par-shattering 69 for the 18 holes, Jimmy Stout paced the field yesterday at the Possum Run links.

Stout, who is a former Possum Run champion, strolled the fairways three strokes under the par 72. The best score this season for the 18 at Possum was established by Joe Mayer last Sunday, when he went the route for a 66, or six under par.

* * *

Pressing Stout close for yesterday's scoring honors was Al Kushin, who chalked up a 70 for the 18. Kushin got a 35 on the inside nine and a 35 on the outside.

* * *

Carl Kushin came off with next best honors by getting a 71 for the full route. Pete Linster, number one man on the Richland Printing foursome, winners of The News-Journal class "A" golf league last year, marked up a 72 for an even par.

* * *

No low scores were turned in at Westbrook yesterday, despite the record crowd that inhabited the Springmill street fairways.

Johnny Heads For Majors

Vander Meer Shows Top Form in Association.

(By Associated Press)

It doesn't take a major prophet to see that young Johnny Vander Meer is headed back to the big leagues if he maintains the winning form he has shown since joining Indianapolis of the American association.

Vander Meer did his share toward lifting the Indians out of the league cellar Sunday with a shutout victory over Milwaukee, 8 to 0. Indiapanolis went on to win the second game, too, 5 to 2, as Bob Logan won his 13th of the season.

Vander Meer gave up 10 hits and walked five batters, but was steady in the pinches, striking out nine batters. He also knocked in three runs.

Louisville slid from third place to fourth by dropping a twin bill to league-leading Kansas City 5 to 4 and 8 to 1.

Minneapolis, trailing the Blues by five and a half games, braced to defeat Toledo twice, 5 to 2 and 9 to 1.

Columbus moved into third place by trouncing St. Paul in both ends of a twin bill, 9 to 8 and 8 to 0.

Veterans Will Get Awards

American Association Will Honor Men at All-Star Tilt.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Two of baseball's outstanding veterans will receive special recognition at the American association's seventh annual all-star game in Kansas City Wednesday night.

League President George M. Trautman will present engraved watches to George A. Barton, baseball writer for 37 years and now sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, and William J. Guthrie, now serving his 36th season as an umpire.

Guthrie's experience includes service in the major leagues and all three of the AA loops—American association, International league and Pacific Coast league. Now in his eighth season on the American association's umpiring corps, Guthrie will be umpire-in-chief for the all-star game although four other arbiters have been assigned to active duty.

A record crowd is expected to see the all-stars, managed by Tom Sheehan of Minneapolis, meet the Kansas City Blues for the second straight year. Last year's 16,521 fans set a new high mark.

Injuries probably will keep two of the all-star first string out of the lineup. Dick West, Indianapolis catcher who sprained his ankle, Thursday night, forfeited his berth to Walker Cooper of Columbus, while Bob Reis of St. Paul likely will replace his teammate, Gil English, at third base.

Merchants Manage Easy Victory

Mansfield's Merchant Girls managed on easy victory over the Bon Oil company combine of Cuyahoga Falls yesterday by outpointing the visitors 11 to 3 at the North Lake park diamond.

Clark was on the rubber for the Mansfielders, allowing the Oilers only five hits and striking out five.

Cantor of the visiting club and Herrick, Merchant second baseman, shared batting honors. Cantor got a triple and Herrick a double. These were the only hits better than a single in the contest.

Stage Battle For 1st Place

Charleston Climbs From 4th to Challenging Position.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(AP)— Charleston's bound from fourth place to the challenging position featured week-end developments in the Mid-Atlantic league pennant race.

The sturdy Senators swept a four-game series from the Canton Terriers and stretched their victory string to five by winning last night's encounter, 5 to 3, although outhit, 8 to 10.

The first-place Akron Yankees, meanwhile, dropped to a full two and a half game advantage over Charleston by splitting a twin bill with the Dayton Wings. Dayton won the wild, 10-inning first game, 8 to 7, and Akron took the seven-inning finale, 10 to 7.

Portsmouth moved out of the cellar, two percentage points over Dayton, by whipping Youngstown in another 10-inning contest, 9 to 8.

McNEILL GRABS CROWN FROM GUERNSEY'S HEAD

NEW YORK —(AP)— Another of Frank Guernsey's tennis crowns is sitting jauntily atop Don McNeill's blonde head today.

Two weeks ago McNeill, the Kenyon college hero who is ranked No. 3 nationally, took over the intercollegiate singles title that Guernsey wasn't able to defend, and today McNeill is possessor of the New York State Clay Court championship. Don won it by beating Frank the defending titleholder, yesterday in a non-spirited battle, 6-1, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

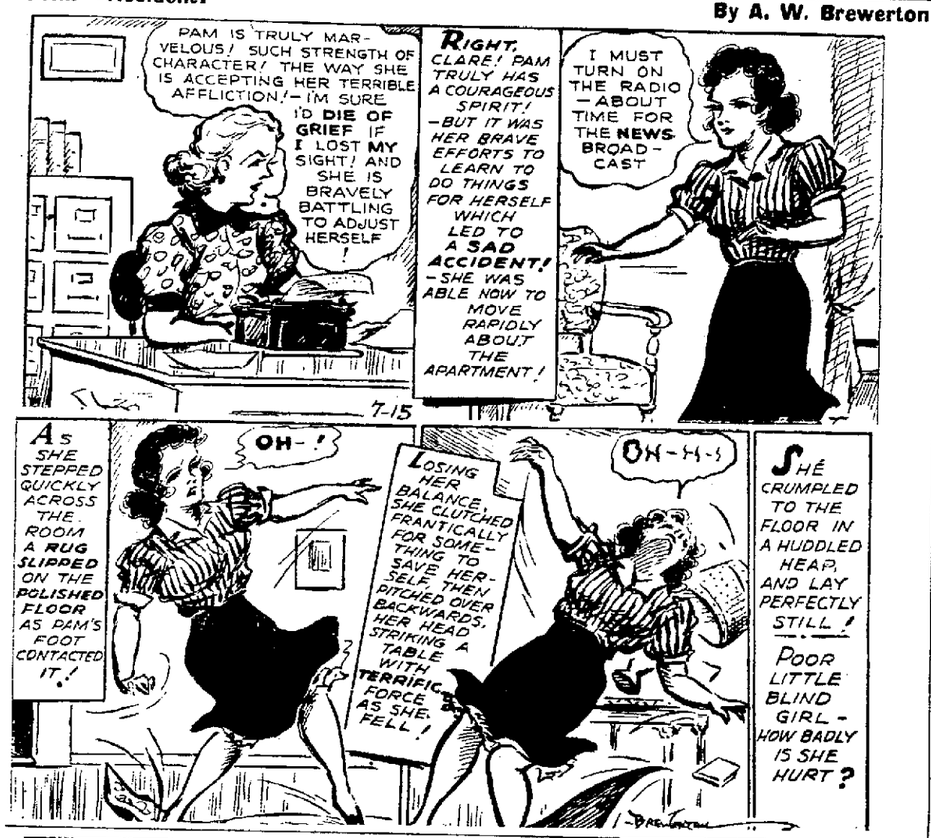
PAM—Accident!

By A. W. Brewerton



PAM IS TRULY MARVELOUS! SUCH STRENGTH OF CHARACTER! THE WAY SHE IS ACCEPTING HER TERRIBLE AFFLICTION!—I'M SURE I'D DIE OF GRIEF IF I LOST MY SIGHT! AND SHE IS BRAVELY BATTLING TO ADJUST HERSELF!
RIGHT, CLARE! PAM TRULY HAS A COURAGEOUS SPIRIT! —BUT IT WAS HER BRAVE EFFORTS TO LEARN TO DO THINGS FOR HERSELF WHICH LED TO A SAD ACCIDENT! —SHE WAS ABLE NOW TO MOVE RAPIDLY ABOUT THE APARTMENT!
I MUST TURN ON THE RADIO —ABOUT TIME FOR THE NEWS BROADCAST
7-15
AS SHE STEPPED QUICKLY ACROSS THE ROOM A RUG SLIPPED ON THE POLISHED FLOOR AS PAM'S FOOT CONTACTED IT.
OH-!
LOSING HER BALANCE, SHE CLUTCHED FRANTICALLY FOR SOMETHING TO SAVE HERSELF. THEN PITCHED OVER BACKWARDS, HER HEAD STRIKING A TABLE WITH TERRIFIC FORCE AS SHE FELL!
OH-H-S
SHE CRUMPLED TO THE FLOOR IN A HUDDLED HEAP, AND LAY PERFECTLY STILL!
POOR LITTLE BLIND GIRL - HOW BADLY IS SHE HURT?

LITTLE BUYING DEVELOPING IN STOCK MARKET

Democratic Convention and Hitler Blitzkrieg Still Delay Purchasers.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A little buying seeped into the stock market today and steels and other selected issues managed to improve fractionally.

Brokers' principal explanations for persistence of speculative apathy were that potential purchasers inclined to await results at the national Democratic convention and further assurances England would be able to ward off the long-threatened Hitler blast.

Bonds were irregular, as were major commodities.

Among stocks edging forward at intervals were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, N. Y. Central, Kennecott and N. Y Shipbuilding.

Lack of much inflation talk was believed due partly to expectations price controls and mounting taxes would do much to counteract any move in this direction.

Boardrooms found some encouragement in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said seasonal influences which normally have a restricting effect on metal buying are being more than offset by several other factors, most prominent of which are export demand and various aspects of domestic armament requirements.

GAMES BANNED

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Guess-your-weight games have been added to the 52 other amusements banned from county and independent fairs in Ohio this year. George E. Kryder, agricultural department inspector, said promoters "abused" the contest.

STRATEGY FOR DRAFT NOT YET FIRMLY FIXED

Farley Remains in Race For Nomination; Delegates Study Running Mate.

to whom Mr. Roosevelt might turn as his running mate. They based this belief on the European war crisis and the efforts of Mr. Roosevelt to develop a hemispheric solidarity.

Secretary Hull has had more to do with the development of the "good neighbor" policy with Latin America than most of the others in the administration. He traveled to several Pan American conferences, and will attend the one opening in Havana Saturday.

Those booming Hull for the vice presidency argued that his nomination would be a token to Latin America that the "good neighbor" policy would be continued by the Democrats.

Still others were arguing, however, that for the sake of party solidarity, Vice President Garner should be renominated.

But the town was filled with potential vice presidential candidates. They were to be seen from the edges of Michigan boulevard all the way into the middle of the loop.

Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, federal security administrator, wandered among the plush furnishings of a palatial hotel suite shaking hands with all comers. He has withdrawn from the presidential race unless Mr. Roosevelt renounces another nomination.

Speaker Bankhead held a press conference. So did Chairman Farley. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina was in evidence. Jesse H. Jones of Texas, who runs the lending agencies of the federal government, was here. So was Representative Rayburn of Texas, the house floor leader, who like Jones is a close friend of Garner.

Of this group, only Senator Wheeler of Montana—like Garner and Farley a presidential aspirant—removed himself from the vice presidential race. Wheeler said he would rather be senator than doze away his time with a gavel in his hand.

He was devoting much of his energy to obtaining a strong "non-intervention" foreign policy plank in the party platform. Early today he reached an agreement with four other senators on a declaration which they planned to submit to the resolutions committee.

The plank, which the group announced would be made the subject of a floor fight if necessary, would pledge the party never to use the nation's armed forces for aggression or to engage in wars in Europe or Asia.

The four who joined with Wheeler were Senators Clark of Missouri, Clark of Idaho, McCarran of Nevada and Johnson of Colorado.

On the third term question, close friends of the president said he had not expressed himself to them except to say "I am not a candidate." But such men as Secretary Ickes said they had no doubt he would take the nomination.

Enough votes are pledged to Mr. Roosevelt to give him the nomination before the end of the first roll call, Farley told reporters he thought the nominee of the convention ought to be made unanimous.

MILWAUKEE— (AP) — Twelve pieces of fire apparatus and two squad cars raced through heavy downtown traffic to a building from which a passerby had seen smoke pouring.

He said he had been preparing a bedtime snack.

meets to conclude public hearings on the platform by listening to recommendations from organized labor and organized business.

Resolutions Committee Chairman Robert F. Wagner of New York hopes to begin the final drafting late today in order to complete the platform for presentation to the convention Wednesday night.

The plank offered by Wheeler's group declares:

"We herewith solemnly reaffirm as basic to our national welfare the principles enunciated by Thomas Jefferson that 'the happines of mankind is best promoted by the useful pursuits of peace; that on these alone a stable prosperity can be founded; that the evils of war are great in their endurance and have a long reckoning for ages to come, and that for us to attempt, by war, to reform all Europe and bring them back to principles of morality and a respect for the equal rights of nations would show us to be only maniacs of another nature.'

"We therefore pledge that our every effort shall be directed against the involvement of this nation in any foreign war. We are unalterably opposed to any encroachment by any foreign power in the affairs of this hemisphere, and likewise to any attempt on the part of the Americas to dictate or control the affairs of other powers.

"We therefore dedicate ourselves to the proposition that we shall never use our armed forces in a war of aggression, nor shall we send those armed forces to engage in wars in Europe or Asia.

"We consecrate ourselves to the principles of peace and the pursuit of friendly relations among all nations."

No draft of a foreign affairs plank as Mr. Roosevelt's supporters would like to see it has been made public, but it was considered certain that the administration wants party endorsement of the president's futile efforts to preserve peace in Europe, and approval of his Charlottesville, Va., pledge to give material aid to nations resisting aggression.

Conscription of young men for military or other government service also is a controverted issue within the resolutions committee. The young Democratic clubs of America national committee last night instructed its president, Homer Mat Adams of Illinois, to ask for a platform declaration favoring "a program of service to the government—a program that calls into service all young men either for training in the armed forces or in civilian and vocational fields."

Wheeler and several other resolutions committee members are against such a declaration.

There is interest in what the party says about the Wagner labor relations act. The Republicans at Philadelphia urged amendments to make it "fairer" to employes and to all groups of workers, both organized and non-union, and denounced "biased" administration.

American Federation of Labor President William Green, who supported the Smith labor law changes approved by the house and now pending in the senate, will appear today to ask the party to condemn by inference at least its own administration of the law. Green's platform proposals, approved by the AFL's executive council, reiterate AFL support of the fundamental principles and policies embodied in the national labor relations act [illegible] ground industrial administration of those policies, free from bias and partisanship."

Germany to Regard London as Military Objective

SPEECH MADE BY CHURCHILL RAISES POINT

No Indication of Present Air Bombardment of City Given.

(By United Press)

BERLIN — Authorized German sources said today that Germany would regard London as a legitimate military objective in view of announced plans to defend the British capital street-by-street.

The question was raised by the speech of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill in which he said that Britons would rather see London in ashes than to surrender to Nazi domination.

Asked whether London would be regarded as an open city after Churchill's speech, an authorized source said:

"No. Absolutely the contrary. "Churchill expressly stated that every house and every street in London would be defended to the last."

There was no indication, however, that the Germans would change their past tactics of avoiding aerial bombardment of London, for the present at least.

During the preliminary phases of the "Battle for Britain" the British capital has been spared from air raids. British planes have avoided bombardment of Berlin.

(The German view that London could not be regarded as an open city presumably would be of importance in event of a blitzkrieg invasion of England in which the Nazis were able to make a direct attack on the capital. In Holland, German dive bombers destroyed a large section of Rotterdam which was putting up a stiff battle against German troops. In France the German air fleet ignored Paris when French soldiers were ordered to fall back around the capital instead of fighting in the streets.)

K. Bender, Saturday.

DUTCH SAILORS GIVEN HEARING

Deportation Proceedings at Detroit Started; Ship Sails Tomorrow.

BULLETIN

SANDUSKY—(INS)—Capt. G. W. C. Van Der Eyck of the Dutch freighter Prins Willem II, which has been docked in Sandusky harbor since the Nazi invasion of the low countries, said today he planned to clear here tomorrow night with a Canadian crew. The crew is scheduled to arrive today, and will replace the Dutch crew now waiting deportation in Detroit.

DETROIT—(AP)—Twelve Netherlands sailors who refused to sail from Sandusky, O., to Montreal aboard the Dutch freighter, Prins Willem II, were given a hearing in deportation proceedings at the United States immigration station here today.

The sailors were brought here from Sandusky last Friday to face charges of being illegally in the United States."

Testimony will be forwarded to Washington for a decision as to action to be taken against the men.

SANDUSKY—(AP)—A note of tranquility entered the trouble-stained log of the Dutch freighter Prins Willem II today.

Its master, Christian A. Van Der Eyck, arranged settlement of a wage dispute holding the coal-laden vessel in port, and made ready to sail by Wednesday.

The genial, portly skipper completed negotiations to pay off 12 rebellious members of his crew, held by immigration officials at Detroit, and also took steps to permit their rejoining the ship.

Settlement of the wage claims would release attachments filed against the vessel here by an attorney for the crew members and lift the final barrier to its departure.

The 12 Dutch seamen were among 20 jailed here 10 days ago after Van Der Eyck complained of threatened sabotage and reported his crew had rebelled against taking the ship to Montreal in fear of internment by Canadian authorities as enemy aliens.

Eight officers among the 20, who subsequently termed the dispute a "big misunderstanding" and were released, assisted the captain today in preparing the ship for departure.

She said in her petition that her husband ignored her when she refused to join the sect. He refused to talk to her for a month, the petition alleged.

MAYOR STUDIES BY-PASSING OF TRAFFIC ON 42

Impressed by Survey Made By Citizens' Group, Works on One Phase of It.

After scanning recommendations submitted in a report by the citizens committee on traffic, Mayor William J. Locke today was mapping plans for relieving congestion around Central park by diverting U. S. route 42 traffic over East First and Hedges street.

The mayor said he had only "hurriedly" read the report but was favorably "impressed" with it. He returned from a vacation this morning and got his first look at the survey made by the committee working to solve Mansfield's knotty traffic tangle.

One of the committee recommendations, was the enforcement of an ordinance passed by council three years ago, which calls for the routing of trucks traveling on U. S. route 42 over Hedges and East First streets, instead of around Central park, but the committee suggested that all traffic over the route be diverted from Central park.

Locke said he was studying the ordinance and may recommend its amendment to include all traffic over the route and restrict parking on First and Hedges streets to eliminate the accident hazard.

Another recommendation included in the report, calling for the installation of parking meters in the business district, will be acted upon by council at its Aug. 6 meeting.

A bill authorizing installation of the machines has already been given two readings and will come up for a final vote on that date.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 15 1940.

In politics as in business, nothing succeeds like success.

If this Monroe Doctrine controversy continues, Hitler may begin to suspect that we don't want him around.

There are compensations in everything. When a city stops growing, it can consolidate its gains and enjoy middle age.

Books For Presidents

ACCORDING to the Columbia University Press, Americans in general believe the following books should be in a president's library, and presumably that the president should read them.

The Bible.
John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."
Hitler's "Mein Kampf."
"The Rise of American Civilization" by Charles and Mary Beard.
Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln."
Ralph Waldo Emerson's "Essays."
Karl Marx's "Capital."
Plato's "Republic."
Shakespeare's works.
Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

With most of these books it will be hard for anyone to find fault. Reading the Bible has probably never hurt anybody. "Grapes of Wrath" is illuminating as regards certain important levels of American life. Any person in a ruling position should know what Hitler himself wrote about his revolutionary plans, and it isn't likely that any American president would be converted by it.

The Beard work should be useful to any statesman, as would Sandburg's great biography of Lincoln. There is still spiritual and moral inspiration in Emerson's writings, although their readers dwindle. Shakespeare, of course, belongs in any choice reading list.

But isn't there danger that Marx's Socialist masterpiece might be just a little subversive? And Plato's "Republic" advocated Communism. And irrepressible Walt Whitman, in his free-verse poems, often verged on anarchism, as when he advised all his fellow-Americans to "obey little, resist much."

Man His Own Worst Enemy

EVERYTHING in our present materialistic civilization has improved but man himself, and here's the real trouble, but we can't do much about it. These powerful new means of destruction are good or bad, according to the way they are used. Civilized man is now using them to make life easier, but also to destroy the civilization he has made.

If, by some miracle, our modern mechanical and scientific means of warfare—particularly the airplane and gas motor—could be abolished, it might save our civilization. But the hell of it is that these "improvements" can't be abolished. Life being as it is, and people being as they are, we have to keep on making and using them. And whether we shall ever restrict them to peaceful and con ructive purposes, as we should, nobody can tell.

If we can't, good-by civilization! We may fight and shoot and burn and smash until we revert to barbarism, and lose these blessings that men have turned into curses—and it would serve us right.

The Sons of Canada

THEY come into the village Saturday night dance, these boys on leave. They stand a little straighter than their comrades who are not in the khaki. Their caps are neatly folded under their shoulder straps. The Highlanders no longer wear their kilts on active service, but their caps have the black streamers which float down over the left shoulder. They are gay with their pals and their girls, they stamp and rollick through the square dances as they always did. But there's a new air of strength and dignity about them. They have "gone down" to enlist. They are doing their duty in their own eyes and those of their neighbors.

Perhaps it is right that the sons of America should not go overseas again. But sometimes we wonder about these sons of Canada. When they come to their parents to say, "I think I'd better go down this week," their mothers say, "I'm sorry you have to go, Lad, but I would not have you stay." Their fathers say, "All right, John. I'll carry on for you at ... me."

The mother may say to a friend, "I miss Bruce. He was always thoughtful. The younger lad has not yet learned to keep the woodbox up and the water pails filled without asking. But we're getting along all right."

The father may say, "I thought he might as well be dead as to live under those Nazis, anyhow. And I guess those boys are going to find out they're up against something else than they've known. It won't be so easy for them now." And that's all.

The sons of men go forth to war—strong sons, these lads of Canada. Strong families behind them. God send them safe return!

French Farce

JULY 14 must have been a sad day for the French people everywhere. That date has long marked their first striking out for freedom as our own July 4 has commemorated the decision of a group of American colonial leaders in 1776 to set up a free and independent government in the New World.

Bastille day this year found the French people newly enslaved, with a puppet government signing away the "liberty, equality, fraternity" of 150 years of belief in such ideals.

Perhaps, however, the present situation is less real and permanent than it seems. A newspaper in Grenoble, France, had the courage to print this to say of the new government of France:

"It is no longer an affair of good sense, but simply a procedure—as if one were to have called out, 'All that goes on here is a farce!'"

Mortar, Men, Money

BRITAIN has ... which is expected soon to total 4,000,000 men. And Prime ... Churchill says it will serve better than the Maginot ... on which France was trusting when the big test came.

"You can't buy safety with bricks and mortar," says Churchill. "You can only buy ... with men."

For the benefit of Americans ... it may be added that you can't buy safety with money. Rich nations have tried that before, and failed. Dollars are useful, but it is men, rather than dollars, ... called on to preserve our safety and ideals. ... believe in those ideals above all else.

G. T. Rutherford, N. He was one of the principal platform ramrods in the fight against the old (and defeated) Long machine. Since then the winds that drift up from the southland have been bringing me consistent reports of Jimmy's candidacy.

If Jimmy comes up this way after the first of the year, guess we'll have to have a get-together and talk of the time you wrote a glowing column about what a swell guy Jimmy Aswell is and some South Carolina editor (or was it Virginia) got confused and ran it under a head that said "By James Aswell."

They tell me Jimmy still keeps the Pullman shades down when he goes through that city.

And even then I'll have to write above the column: The facts contained herein bear no resemblance to anything living or dead.

G. P., San Diego, Calif.—Based on the 1936 popular vote, Wendell L. Willkie would have to swing a little more than 5,000,000 votes that went for Roosevelt and hold the 17,000,000 votes considered Republican under any circumstances. The sideline guessers here now are saying that Mr. Willkie probably will get a lot of normally Democratic votes (being so recently a Democrat himself), but for that very reason probably will lose some of the ordinarily die-hard Republicans. Personally, I think it's a little too early to tell about any of these supposed trends. The political picture, based as it is almost entirely on the foreign situation plus the shifting whim of the American voter, can change a half dozen times between now and November . . . but it is anybody's guess at the moment as to what it is going to change from.

R. E. B., Joplin, Mo.—Thanks for the tip on the Admiral Dewey report at the navy department. The department generously is working on it for me and if I uncover any more minor or major prophets on modern warfare, will be sure to let you know.

Mrs. D. C. L., Denver, Colo.—I think I can assure you that the government is not devoting ALL its time to rearmament and overlooking the possibilities of the trade war which may result when the European battles are over. My hunch is that the first big hint of how much time is being devoted to it will come out of the Pan-American conference at Havana.

Because trade wars have no roots in strutting and braggadocio, our economic plans are a good deal more secret than our armament aims.

Traders have to be sly, but when it comes to putting on armor, all nations act like little boys and throw out their chests and say: "Just look how strong I am. If you touch me, I'll punch your middle clear back to your spine."

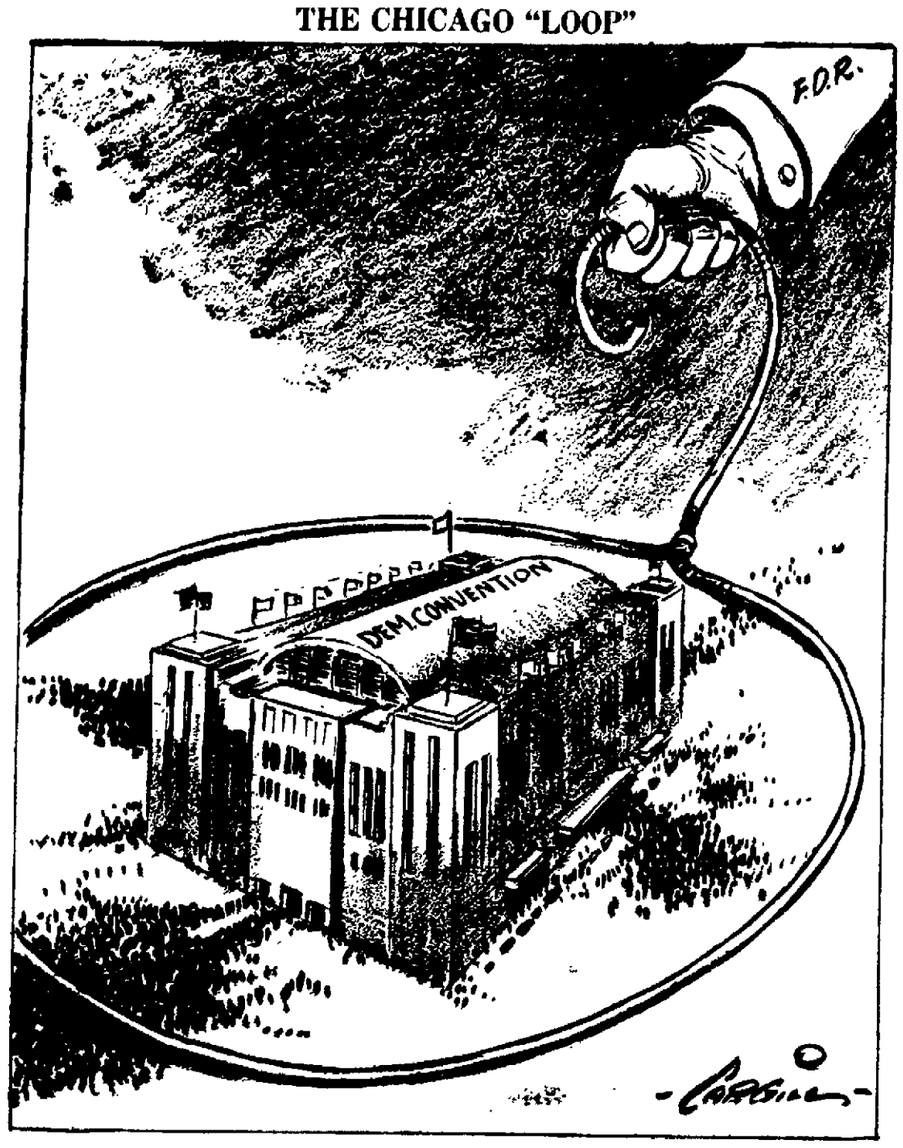
THE CHICAGO "LOOP"



Why Industry Shies at War Orders

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt has gone PART of the way to correct the morass into which the national defense program had bogged down. This was in his endorsement of the five-year amortization plan for computing war profits, which is embodied in the new legislation to be pushed through to "take the profit out of war."

The trouble was due chiefly to the determination of Secretary Henry Morgenthau's bright young men to let no guilty tax dollar escape in the spending of billions for national defense. Efforts of the Knudsen National Defense commission to enroll American industry marched successfully up one hill after another, surmounted difficulty after obstruction, promised almost miracles, and then fell into tank traps dug by the treasury experts.

Airplane motors are the best illustration, though this particular problem may be solved shortly. But with engines the admitted bottleneck, and with skilled machinists to make the tools and dies admitted the chief lack, as realized long before President Roosevelt's promise of 50,000 planes, weeks stretched into months at the treasury without action. The tax and price experts stolidly insisted on their own ideas as to deductions for plant expansion costs.

"It was like asking us to buy bonds—not stock with a chance to make a killing," said one big manufacturer who gets along fine with Knudsen but bogs down at the treasury. "The trouble is that these bonds may pay their interest for one year, maybe for four, but after that, when the defense crisis passes, the bonds will default. We will have millions tied up in additions to plant, which, as Mr. Roosevelt so graphically put it in his acceptance speech at Chicago in 1932, will be 'standing stark and idle.'

"It's not a question of how much profit we make. It's whether we have any chance at all to get out without a loss. The amount of profit is not nearly so important as a guarantee of some sort against losing our shirts.

"For example, suppose a company makes $1,000,000 net profit on a war order. Of that, under the existing tax law, one-fifth, or $200,000, would go to the federal treasury anyhow under the corporation income tax. Other federal taxes take a piece. The new war profits tax will then take a big chunk of what is left. Finally, the residue presumably will be paid out to the stockholders. So what? Percentages of those dividends running way up to nearly three-quarters, according to the individual incomes of the recipients, will be paid into the treasury under personal income tax levies.

"So it is obvious that nobody wants to put a lot of money into an addition to plant for war supplies unless he knows that if the war orders stop in a few years, he can somehow prevent a huge loss on the cost of the plant."

Most of the New Deal left wingers have been encouraging Morgenthau's young men. They are feeding out propaganda that the government will have to "draft" industry—take it over. They blame this talk on the army. In fact, they say it originates there. It does NOT. Nor does it come from the Defense commission. Actually the Defense commission feels that industry is willing to cooperate splendidly, and the commission does not blame the individual companies for not wanting to risk their shirts.

Practical people realize that the big war orders may blow up with disastrous suddenness after a year or two. For example, we could have the war end, and then, with the election of the congress to be held in 1942, a strong economy wave. At present the country has been rather thoroughly frightened. This may last, but most such scares do not, whether they should or not. France was afraid of Germany, but it lost interest in preparedness after it built the Maginot line.

Listen, World!

You Can Take Your Choice.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Wherever you go, you'll find people who will fail you, people who will lie to you, take advantage of you, hurt or shock you by their coarseness and brutality.

And these people are bound to have a tremendous effect upon your life. In fact, they are the makings of your life. Their actions shape your viewpoint, determine your attitude, mold your character for better or worse.

"That's true," you say. "I've met people like that; the world seems to be filled with them lately. Fact is, they're getting me down, turning me sour. I used to believe in everyone: now they've got to show me! But what can I do about it? You can't go around reforming the world."

No, you can't reform the world—and you're both a chump and a pain in the neck if you try. But, on the other hand, you can do plenty about your own reaction to the world.

You don't have to let it get you down or turn you sour.

You don't have to distrust the whole plan of Creation merely because your brother skipped out and left you holding his note. Or your girl friend stole your sweetheart. You may not be able to prevent other people from doing such contemptible things, but you can determine your own reaction to them. You can take your choice. You can yield to anger and self-pity. You can say—

"I might have known it would turn out like this! I never did get a straight deal, anyway—and here's just one more proof that you can't trust anyone. No one will play fair with you, unless there's something in it for them. Honesty? Decency? It's the bunk? And I was a sap ever to believe in them. But you can bet your last bean, no one will make a sucker of me again!"

You can say that to yourself—and probably find ample evidence to confirm your conclusions. But suppose you do, what'll it buy you? Nothing but grief. Just a bunch of bleats and burps, and a permanent bunion on your disposition. On the other hand, you can face exactly the same circumstances and say this to yourself.

"Yes, this is certainly a raw deal. But, after all, why should I take it so personally? This didn't happen just because someone wanted to two-time me. It happened because we humans are still greedy children . . . part savage . . . half-way starting up the ladder of evolution. So we're bound to do such cruel and ruthless things. The wonder is that we're as decent as we are!

"But I won't be hurt by this particular piece of treachery. But are sure to be wiped out if you give up the fight now."

"That's what worries me," said Roosevelt quietly, as if to himself.

The third caller, completing the march across the country, was Rep. Lee Geyer, militant young California liberal, who was accompanied by J. Frank Burke, Los Angeles radio station owner. Burke told Roosevelt he had supported him throughout his regime.

"Yes, and he'll continue to support you for a third term," interposed Geyer.

"California's all right," grinned Roosevelt evasively.

"That depends on whether you are the candidate," shot back Geyer. "But frankly, Mr. President, we're not going to ask you whether you want to run or not. We're going to nominate you and won't take 'no' for an answer."

Roosevelt looked gravely at his two visitors and made no reply.

Surprise Reception.

Mayor Ed Kelly, official convention host, has one reception up his sleeve that he's keeping very quiet. It's a surprise he is planning for certain gallery spectators.

Kelly received a tip several days ago that fake tickets were being printed for the purpose of packing the galleries with hired disturbers to stage anti-Roosevelt demonstrations.

At Philadelphia, Willkie gallery rooters attracted a lot of attention. According to the word reaching Kelly, Roosevelt foes apparently are planning to use similar tactics—but for knocking, instead of boosting, purposes. And this won't be the only difference between the demonstrations.

At the GOP convention, the enthusiastic Willkie rooters were not molested, although the other candidates were very peeved. But at this convention any attempt to stage an anti-Roosevelt fracas will be promptly and very forcibly suppressed.

Kelly has secretly assigned special details of uniformed and plainclothes police throughout the galleries with orders to eject any disturber. And the instructions are NOT to be gentle about it.

"If they resist," said Kelly, an ardent third-termer, "smack them down."

Reports also are circulating that a flood of telegrams will descend on delegates from their home states urging them to vote against a third term.

This Is Ohio

Ohio will be in the front rank of industrial mobilization for national defense. Figures recently gathered by the Bureau of Business Research, Ohio State University, show that the Ohio machine tool industry produced 31 per cent of the total value of these products in the U. S. in 1937.

Any step in expansion or modernization of manufacturing is based on the machine tool industry. The value of Ohio's machine tools was nearly three times that of Connecticut, the second ranking state in machine tool production.

WORDS AND DEEDS

It was only three weeks ago that Adolf Hitler was telling an American correspondent, Karl H. von Wiegand, that he had no quarrel with the Monroe Doctrine, and that the best means for insuring peace between the two hemispheres was for both sides to accept that policy as meaning "America for Americans, Europe for Europeans."

Hitler's foreign office seems to have received different instructions on the Monroe Doctrine. It has rejected as "untenable" the resolution adopted by congress refusing to permit transfer of territories in the new world from one non-American power to another.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

CHICAGO—The manager of the Congress hotel on famed Michigan Boulevard was one of the first persons outside the innermost White House group to get the word that President Roosevelt would run again.

The hotel man was let in on the secret by a member of the White House staff, who was dispatched to Chicago to make arrangements for the president's visit when he accepts the "draft" nomination. The secret service agent reserved a number of rooms for the presidential party and naturally had to explain why he was doing so.

The choice of the Congress was made personally by Roosevelt. He stayed there when he flew to Chicago in 1932 to make his first spectacular acceptance speech, and during his two successful campaigns.

The floor that will be occupied by the president, as well as the floor above and the one below, have been under constant surveillance since the reservation was made. During the president's stay the entire hotel will be under guard.

Travel arrangements have been made for the president both by rail and plane. He wants to fly but the secret service is opposed to that, and unless he overrules them he will make the trip by special train.

* * *

Terrific Pressure.

Those last few days before he made his momentous decision should be indelibly stamped on the president's memory.

The undercover pressure on him to run was terrific. An illustration was what happened in a period of two hours on Monday, shortly after he returned to his desk from the week-end stay at Hyde Park. Three close congressional friends, men who had one down the line for him through thick and thin, called on him and insisted that he had to run again.

The first was Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, whose delegation nominally is pledged to Jim Farley. McCormack is one of the delegates but a strong third-termer, and frankly told Roosevelt that the time had come for him to declare himself.

"Our delegation is all for you," McCormack said. "But we don't know what to do. I don't want to impose on you, but you owe it to us to give some indication what you are thinking. We feel you are the one man capable of leading us in this crisis and you just have to make the sacrifice."

Roosevelt demurred, insisting there were other leaders in the party who could successfully challenge the GOP.

"And besides, John," he said, "I can be of assistance out of office as well as in."

"Yes, but your strength is increased a million-fold as president," replied McCormack.

Still the president protested, saying that the past seven years had been trying and wearing.

"There is no question about that," said McCormack, "but the toughest are yet to come. That's why you've got to be in the White House."

Worried About Reforms.

The second caller was Rep. Adolph Sabath of Illinois, chairman of the rules committee and a veteran of 34 years in the house. He began by recalling that in 1930, after Roosevelt's re-election as governor of New York, Sabath had sent him a telegram predicting he would be the next president.

"You simply have got to run again," Sabath declared. "You owe it to the country, to humanity in general and to the party. Furthermore, all the New Deal reforms

How It Started

"Why Is It Boston Common"?

Famous the country and the world over is Boston "Common" to which is drawn as the needle to the pole every visitor to the city which held history's most publicised tea party.

The "Common" dates back to colonial days.

Not only in Boston, but elsewhere throughout New England is it called Common because it was set aside for a training field and "common" ground—a tract whose use belonged to the public, as say for the purpose of pasturage or personal pleasure.

The words "common ground" appear in the original decree which so segregated the Boston Common.

Field Daisies

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

The poet, Robert Burns, once plowed a daisy out and wrote these lines:

"Thou in thy scanty mantle clad,
Thy snowy bosom sunward spread,
Thou lifts thy unassuming head
In humble guise;
But now the share upturns thy bed
And low thou lies!

Even thou who mourns the Daisy's fate,
That fate is thine, no distant date;
Stern Ruin's ploughshare drives elate,
Full on thy bloom
Till crushed beneath the furrow's weight
Shall be thy doom."

FOR three weeks past the daisies have been in bloom. I saw the modest inconspicuous plants upon a stony slope and noticed the pinched buds a month ago. Today I stood and looked across a field white with nodding blossoms.

Each plant has a cluster of straight stems springing from a common center. The flowers are simple golden-centered ones, with a whorl of slender petals. They grow from seeds and from roots, and a single plant will multiply itself many times in a season. They carpet the barren unproductive spots of ground with a thick matted turf. They bloom through out the summer and seem to thrive on thin soil where other plants can scarcely find a livelihood.

When I was a lad, out among the Pennsylvania hills, my father used to set us boys the task of ridding the farm of daisies. There they were weeds, but I always felt a reluctance to grub them out and cherished an unvoiced admiration for their pluck and grit and the persistence with which they returned every year in spite of us.

They grew, I remember, among the wheat, which my father cut with an old-fashioned cradle. Sometimes my mother would follow him binding sheaves. Some of the sheaves had daisies bound into them, and when the shocks were set up the impudent white blossoms waved along the top.

These flowers are, I believe, of English origin. The ox-eye daisy and the state's top are the more highly developed varieties. Today I stood for a long time and looked upon the daisies in the sun. Memories sprang and surged, causing lack so that I turned away, eyes moist.

CHAPTER XXVII.

He paused, as if a little uncertain of his words. The two girls looked at him.

"—of course Bob didn't understand that you were truly unhappy, with real cause," Monty concluded.

Rosemary just looked at him closely.

"Rosemary has just received a letter that disturbed her, Sue," Monty explained, unconsciously lapsing into his formal classroom tone. "It was perhaps unfortunate that Bob didn't realize that—ah—"

Rosemary nodded. "It's sweet of you to apologize for him, Monty. You are the most considerate man I ever knew!"

"Oh I say!" He looked his protest.

"It's true. And of course it's all right. About Bob. I really was a crybaby, of course. He didn't know why I was upset, and crying wasn't helping anyway. It's just that I haven't seen my brother in two years, and he has been so harum-scarum since daddy died!"

"How long has your father—your parents——?" Monty asked gently, not quite completing the question.

"Six years. Mother longer than that. So you see, any family feeling I might have was centered on Jack, and he didn't want it!"

Monty smiled in friendly manner. "Try not to be too concerned. I shall write Dr. Overton to look in on him at once. He is a noble man as well as a shrewd attorney, Rosemary. Jack will be in good hands. Meantime, I suggest that you think of other—"

"Right, Monty. You tell Sue for me, while I go upstairs. Here, Susie, read the letter yourself. It did upset me a lot. I'll be back down in half an hour."

Sue and Monty discussed the matter at some length. A murder, or a charge of murder, is indeed a serious thing. It can blight the life of the person accused, and can reflect upon the lives of people near to that one. Rosemary, a sensitive and sentimental young person, obviously would be affected deeply by any such tragedy and her two friends hoped earnestly to guard her against that unhappiness.

"It is not necessarily alarming, Sue," Monty repeated now.

"But it would be to me! Especially if it got in the papers, as it will. The papers just have to print whatever goes on. We don't know what kind of murder, I mean, much about the details and all, but——"

"Oh, I daresay it was not a sensational case, or we should have read it in the papers even before the air-mail letter arrived."

"Not necessarily," Sue put in. "Flagstaff is only ten hours from New York by air."

"In any event I am powerless to help her!" Monty exclaimed. "Except to ask Dr. Overton to look in. I wish I might think of some further way to save her the worry and strain!"

Sue turned her head to look closely at the professor. The two were standing outside the log store, leaning now against the wall in the sunshine. Monty still held the wrenches which he had carried to repair the water pump. His somewhat florid young face showed obvious concern for Rosemary.

"Monty," Sue said, after a long pause, "I really believe you mean it."

"I beg pardon?"

"I say I believe you—why you would do anything for Rosemary, wouldn't you?" Sue spoke kindly.

"Of course!"

She turned away, and sighed in understanding. "I declare, I hadn't thought of that possibility." She almost murmured it, as if to herself, gazing off into the forest.

"Thought of what, Sue?"

She smiled suddenly. "Never mind! It's a strange world, Monty, my pal! I—I only wish I could steer it just a little right now."

"Oh, yes," said Monty, misunderstanding.

* * *

They were interrupted by the arrival of an automobile. It pulled around the front of the store and parked near them, on the side area, as it the driver meant to stay a while.

"How do you do?" the stranger greeted Sue and Monty. "Is Miss Taylor around?"

"She's upstairs. Said she would be down in half an hour, and—I'll whistle to her. – Ro-o-o-osemary!" Sue didn't whistle literally, but called up through the window of Rosemary's room. "Come on, there's a gentleman to see you. A stranger."

Rosemary looked much fresher when she reappeared. A brief interval alone often helps a lot after talking things out with friends. She greeted the new man cordially.

"Oh, yes, I remember you now!" she suddenly declared. "You were one of the men who answered my newspaper advertisement when I first offered the trading post for sale. You—you weren't much interested then. What was your name again?"

"Barringer, from Phoenix," he smiled agreeably. "I had to take time to investigate everything thoroughly. I have done so, on the quiet, Miss Taylor, and I hope I am not too late. I am now prepared to buy your store at the price you wanted. And to pay cash."

The entirely unexpected offer of cash for her trading post, at exactly the figure she had originally asked, sort of took the wind out of Rosemary Taylor.

And then—oddly enough—she turned for advice not to the man she said she loved, but to the man who held unspoken love for her. She might just as well have waited until Bob King came that evening and discussed it with him, because she put the buyer off for twenty-four hours. But she didn't wait. She went to Dr. Archibald Montgomery and asked him what to do. This was toward midafternoon.

"It will be an awful lot of money, for me! Won't it, Monty?" She was quite excited about it. They had gone inside and were sitting at the rear corner table which had sort of become a business desk. "I could go to New York immediately, by plane, and do whatever I wanted."

Monty nodded.

"Yes," said he, "you could. But the time would come surprisingly soon when you should have to go to work again. This sum of money is not enough to support you at mere interest. You would have to invest it in some business."

"Oh!"

"And I can truthfully say, Rosemary, that it would mean only a very small business in New York City, with only a fighting chance of success. But out here—I say, let us be sensible. Let's make lists of the reasons pro and con." He took sheets of paper from a box. "On this page we will enumerate reasons for selling. And here, reasons for not selling. All right?"

"Okay. First, I can go back to New York. Second, I will have money, and if I just want to save it I probably can still get my old job with Bickford, Cullum and McIntyre."

"Um. Quite so." He was writing. "You are prepared, then, to be a stenographer, or secretary, indefinitely? Perhaps this is a moment to consider your business future."

"Oh."

"Other reasons for selling?"

* * *

She hesitated, looking across the table at his eyes. Come to think of it, what other reasons, specifically, were there? She couldn't help her brother Jack any more if she were on the scene. She could glimpse the bright lights again, get the delicious feel of crowds and bustle and general city life, but after that—

"But it ought to go on the good list, Monty!"

"Very well." He erased it and wrote it on the other page. "And you were extremely afraid of big purring Cissy, the mountain lion."

"I love her now. But she is a menace. She bumps against things and breaks them. She knocked over a whole shelf of valuable Hopi pottery."

"I shall build her a large rustic cage." He spoke as if it were settled that the present situation was to be permanent, but neither noticed. "Next, there is isolation, isolation from any town and especially from any city. You do not even have a telephone here. Or a railroad or a trolly or—"

"Good!"

"I beg pardon?" He looked up from the table.

"I say, isn't that nice! I can go out in the forest any time I like, Monty. Sue has taught me how to lure birds into my window sill. You take crumbs and grain, and suet in winter, and for the humming-birds you put some sweetened water in a little bottle wrapped with colored paper so that—"

"Quite so. Then isolation goes on the good sheet?"

"Well—yes. I don't mean that it isn't terribly lonesome away from New York. It's a grand city, really. But Monty I never lived in a forest before!"

"No."

"I am learning to shoot. Sue teaches me."

"I hope to take it up myself."

"Let's do! You can have any gun in my gun case there. There's a fine new repeating rifle and a revolver with steer-horn handle."

"Thanks. In due time."

"And look, Monty!" She suddenly left their little table and ran to a shelf. In a moment she was back, unrolling a little kit of tools that suggested instruments from a doctor's or dentist's office, except that they were sturdier. "Look—these are for leather. Tooling things. Pola is showing me how and I am making a purse and a belt. This one is the main tool. It's called a swivel knife. You hold it like this—see—forefinger on top, and turn it as you cut. Wait, I'll get a piece of leather."

WHAT IS MALT?..

BARLEY

and how is it used in making beer and ale?

Answer: Brewers' malt is barley that has had its starches modified. The barley is first permitted to "sprout" by the addition of moisture. At the right instant, the growth is checked by heat and the sprouts are removed.

What remains is malt . . . the essential base of all good beer and ale.

Every step in the brewing of good beer and ale has been taught by centuries of experience. Today, amazingly expert brewers — using only the purest ingredients — make beer and ale the mild, tasty, wholesome beverages that they are.

Now the brewing industry is taking action to keep the retailing of beer as wholesome as beer itself. A plan to eliminate abuses is already in effect in a number of states. It is being extended. Ask us for an interesting free booklet.

30 Days On Vendol Made Big Change In Mansfield Lady

Tried for Years to Find Right Medicine to Relieve Troubles Due to Constipation. Feels Fine Now, Advises Everyone Try Vendol.

MRS. RUTH CULP

"Constipation was causing me a lot of troubles. I had to take strong medicine for relief but seemed these things left me more constipated all the time," says Mrs. Ruth Culp of 99 East Fourth street, Mansfield.

"There were not many days that I didn't suffer from dizziness, headaches and spots swimming before my eyes. I didn't eat heavy meals but what I did, lay heavy in my stomach and would often come back so sour it burned like fire. My stomach felt tight and swollen after meals and the gas felt at times like it would shut off my breath. Most all my muscles felt sore and stiff and my joints were full of pains. Cramping pains in my legs were so bad some nights I'd get up and walk the floor and had frequent calls from my kidneys.

"Vendol brought the most satisfying relief from constipation that I had never found, then all these annoying troubles gradually went away and today I'm like a different person. I can eat anything I want even pork and other things I didn't dare touch before. My sleep is restful so that I get up every morning ready for the day's work. I began taking Vendol a month ago and wish I had started sooner. I give full credit to Vendol and advise everyone suffering like I did to begin at once on this excellent medicine."

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists here and is especially recommended by Central Drug store, corner Main and Fourth streets.

VARIED ACTIVITIES OCCUPY RESIDENTS

Party for Newly-Weds Event of Saturday; Former Mansfielders Feted By Friends; Bowman Mothers Plan Picnic.

THE weeks have a way of rushing past us so quickly, that we have little more than a chance to take a hurried look at what is happening. And here it is already mid-July, and everyone (almost) is vacationing somewhere, getting all rested up for the activities of the coming autumn season.

Recent affairs of many types in the Mansfield area have provided diversion, while a number of future parties, picnics and outings will attract interest. Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. James Logsdon, 138 Willow street, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hughes entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs Harry Boyer. Mrs. Boyer, the former Miss Lyda Mae Hughes, is the foster daughter of the E. C. Hughes.

She and Mr. Boyer were married in Cleveland June 29. A shower of miscellaneous gifts was presented, and the hosts gave the couple a wedding gift. Pink and green appointments and bowls of sweet peas and roses decorated the small tables at which refreshments were served.

Cards were played during the evening, and prizes were won by Mrs. Lester McQuillen, Miss Clara Mae Logsdon, and Wilbur Martin. These were presented to Mrs. Boyer.

* * *

Guests in Mansfield always receive a royal welcome, and can depend on the fact that they will be feted and entertained with a variety of social functions. Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Brenner, former residents who now live at Charleston, S. C., have just left the city after a two week stay. They are planning to visit friends at Johnson City, Tenn., on their way home.

Entertain Guests.

While in Mansfield Mr. and Mrs. Brenner were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, Pennsylvania avenue, Lincoln Heights. They were entertained by Mr. and Mrs Ross Weekly at a dinner party, and at a luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Murphy in addition to a number of affairs given by the Smiths during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenner also visited for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hofter, former Mansfielders, now residing in Chicago, Ill.

The Bowman school Mothers club will have the annual picnic at Johns park July 24 instead of July 17, as was previously announced. Mrs. Harold Armstrong is in charge of entertainment, while the officers are serving as hostesses.

Those in charge are Mrs. Harry Constance, president; Mrs. Bessie Erickson, secretary, and Mrs. Don Hartig, treasurer, assisted by Mrs. Mike Keller, Mrs. Albert Keinath, Mrs. Emmett Izer and Mrs. Joe Baumberger.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson, Lawn avenue, toured the Endless Caverns at New Market, Va., while on a motor trip through the Shenandoah valley.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE.

Announcement was made this morning of the marriage of Miss Eileen Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hoffman, R. D. 6, and Robert Keefer, son of Mrs. L. O. Boyer, Lucas, and Boyd Keefer, Seattle, Wash. The ceremony was performed June 22 at Covington, Ky. At the present time Mr. and Mrs. Keefer are at home at 123 Snyder street.

HOSTS TO CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold, 97 Hedges street, entertained members of the Schnitzelbank club Saturday evening at their home. Twenty members and two guests, Misses Marion and Mary Jo McFarland of Kenton, were present. Contests were the diversion with prizes being won by Mrs. Harry Shover, Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, Floyd Magiott, Henry Berg and Donald Leonard. Later in the evening refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be a picnic on July 28 at the Stewart cabin, Mifflin lake.

Recipe For Happy Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

One couple's recipe for how to be happy though married even for fifty years- seems to have worked, as far as appearances go. She has a sweet, unruffled brow, and her smile is not forced. He has a merry twinkle in his eye, is not bald, and has kept his figure.

We're talking about Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Waters, who observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary a week or so ago at their home in Old Georgetown, not far from Washington, D. C.

The 70-year-old celebrant of fifty years of connubial bliss might easily pass for 50, and the answer is, according to him, "We have never argued. If the wife wants to do a thing, I let her do it; if I want to do something, she never stops me."

The recipe was so simple that everyone present waited for a catch. But there wasn't any, and Mr. Waters continued, "We haven't had an argument since our marriage.

They were childhood sweethearts and fell in love soon after Mr. Waters was promoted to long pants and Mrs. Waters had put up her pigtails Today they have three children, four grandchildren, and many joyous memories of their fifty years of companionship. After the cake had been cut, Mr. Waters expanded a little and said, "All married couples should go fifty-fifty with each other, if they want fifty years of married bliss. They should live not only with each other but for each other."

After considering the ideal home life and the youthful good looks of this couple, one ponders some of the absurd charges on which couples have sued for divorce. Of different nationalities, Mr. X. sued his wife for a divorce because her cooking never varied from the dishes of her own home land. His particular antipathy was boiled dumplings. He argued, pleaded, stormed against dumplings, but there they were on the dinner table night after night.

He explained that his country had produced some of the greatest chefs in the world and they did not favor dumplings. But it made no difference. Dumplings it was. He sued for divorce.

Mrs. Y., taking her troubles to Reno on the grounds of incompatability, defined her charges not against blonde or brunette but against Mr. Y's love of reading. He seemed to prefer the classics to her conversation, which he said was "gossipy."

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Well, Leslie!" he said, his voice showing nothing but apparent amusement. "I came hunting a a cat-bird and find a jail bird. Well! I suppose I might as well be trite and say a fair exchange is no robbery."

Leslie's eyes glittered with anger at the thrust, and his head turned toward the road I guessed that he meant to call the chauffeur to his aid, and summoning every bit of histrionism I possessed, I made my voice as near like a man's as possible, and muttered thickly to Leslie:

"One sound from you and it will be your last one. We don't miss."

Then I turned to Dicky.

"This guy's chauffeur is coming toward this thicket fast. Don't go out. Talk from here."

Dicky nodded, took his revolver from his belt, and aimed it through the bushes at the chauffeur.

"Hands up my lad!" he called in a cheery voice which yet held unmistakable menace. "And don't come a step farther unless you want that nice uniform spoiled by a bullet hole. It'll cost a lot to have it mended so it won't show, but you won't be wearing it anyway. You'll have a nice wooden coat."

The chauffeur had stopped, but uncertainly, and his voice rose defiantly.

"Where's Jack Leslie? What have you done with him?"

He edged himself a step farther toward the thicket as he spoke, and Dicky heaved an audible sigh.

"Nothing else will convince you, I suppose," he said, and fired his revolver once. The bullet whizzed past the man's head so closely that I shuddered, although I know what a splendid marksman Dicky is, and the man jumped.

"What you trying to do, get the chair for murder?" he asked raucously.

"For the killing of one of your gang?" Dicky said with a light little laugh. "I'm more apt to get the Croix de Guerre mit palms Don't worry your head about that part of it. But you saw how closely that came to your dome. I missed purposely that time, just to give you a little demonstration that I wasn't fooling. But if you make another move, it's yours for a long term in a hospital, if not a slab in the morgue. Now are you going to be good and keep those hands hoisted high?"

The man put his hands still higher above his head.

"I know when I'm licked," he said sullenly. "But I wish you'd tell me what's become of Leslie."

"You'll know soon enough," Dicky said. "Just now you have a ticklish little job in front of you. Turn around, still with your hands way up, and back toward this thicket. Take all the time you need, for if you stumbled I'm afraid this gun will get nervous again."

POINTERS ON REMOVING PLANTS FROM POTS

Before attempting to remove a potted plant from its container be sure the ball of soil is moist all the way through. This prevents the tiny roots from sticking to the sides of the pot, which is the usual reason for the ball of earth breaking when it is "tapped" from the pot.

In preparing to remove a plant from its container, hold the pot in the left hand, and spread the fingers over the top on either side of the plant's stem, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Next turn the pot upside down, and give the bottom a sharp tap with the free hand, and the ball of earth holding the plant's roots will come out intact.

If you are planning to re-pot the plant in a larger container, be sure the new pot is first thoroughly cleaned on the inside with soap and hot water. If a new clay pot is to be used, it should be allowed to soak in water for several hours before using since this will make it more porous.

Blue glass is produced with cobaltic oxide; cupric oxide makes green and red glass; stannic oxide makes opaque white; chromic oxide makes yellow-green; ruby red glass is made by adding gold.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 16.

Conflict, confusion and secrecy are observed in this day's astral chart. While there is a decided sign of benefit, with generous and expansive influence of enhancement, growth, financial gain as well as personal popularity and prestige, yet there is need of precaution, shrewdness or strategy to attain such desirable objectives. Writings, papers, and both business and social correspondence seems to be at the root of duplicity or craft, so be alert to all forms of subtlety. Be vigilant with friends involved in finances and keep restrained.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of intrigue, deception, fraud or tricky entanglements unless they exert ceaseless vigilance and precaution, even in transactions involving friends. There may be peculiar developments or hazards with the most trusted friends, and that concerning the affections as well as financial matters. Some decided benefits may be accomplished by shrewdness and watchfulness. There should be an expansive year, with personal popularity and many social pleasures. Be particularly careful with all correspondence and documents.

A child born on this day may be extravagant and generous to a fault, thereby being easily victimized financially and imposed on in sentimental relations Special training in thrift and integrity would not be amiss.

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE SUIT TO SET UP

WHEN PLAYING a No Trump game contract, it is nearly always necessary for the declarer to establish and take tricks with the small cards of some suit. The honors alone will seldom produce a large enough number of tricks One of the declarer's first duties, therefore, is to decide which suit to select, as the one in which he will seek the small card tricks. If there is only one promising suit, he has no such problem, but frequently he must choose between two suits, or from among three.

Several factors count in the choice of suit, an obvious one is the high card strength in the suit or in other words, the question of how near it is to being surely established. Another is the matter of entries and re-entries into the hand containing a suit. Presuming these factors to be equal, there still are other ones which bear with considerably importance on the choice between suits. Several are illustrated by these.

Declarer	Dummy
1. AKQ4	7632
2. AKQ4	763
3. AKQ9	763
4. AKQ42	763
5. AKQ42	76
6. AKQ92	7

If you were the declarer and had the choice between some two of those suits, as the one to establish, No. 1 should be preferred to No. 2 because the opponents hold one less card of it, and therefore are likely to run out of cards in it earlier. No 3 is very slightly preferable to No. 2 because, if four cards of it are bunched with one opponent, the other may possibly happen to hold the J and 10 alone, so that the 9 sets up

No. 4 is preferable to No. 1 though the side has eight cards in each, because it can net one more trick by setting up. No. 5 is for the same reason preferable to No. 2, but No. 4 is to be preferred over it Though the side has a minority of cards in suit, No. 6, it should be preferred to No. 2, which has more, if five tricks are needed in the suit, as an opponent with only two or three cards, may hold both the J and 10. In a case where five tricks are needed, No. 5 would also be preferred to No. 1, though the side has one less card in it.

AVIATION NEWS—

5 NEW PILOTS DO STUFF FOR U. S. INSPECTOR

If They Pass They'll Be Given Private Pilot Licenses; Other Flying News.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Tuesday will be an eventful day in the lives of five Mansfield district fliers.

For months each has been going aloft, practicing turns, banks, spins, take-offs and landings. But tomorrow they will execute their ability to fly an airplane under the eagle eye of a government inspector.

It's the day selected for "flight" checking them for their private pilot license—a permit that will allow them to take passengers along with them in a plane.

Four of the students have already been flight examined by James R. (Bud) Harrington, the government inspector here, and the other will be put through the tests tomorrow.

Although Harrington holds a Civil Aeronautics authority license to examine pilots for their licenses, W. W. Jarrell, Cleveland, the CAA's inspector for this district will "spot check" the first 10 fliers examined by him.

That's the reason for tomorrow's tests. The five are the first students examined by Harrington here.

Those who will take the examinations are Charles Silsby and William Kick, both of Mansfield; R. A. Kyser, Ashland; W. A. Bertsing of Galion.

Ralph Shelton, vice president of the Art Rattan works, who has his own ship will be flight examined by Harrington and will then be "checked" by Jarrell.

And speaking of examinations, those five additional students selected from a recent ground school conducted here will get into the air this week for flight training.

The other 10 students are well on their way towards the 35 hours needed before they can come up for their private pilot exam. Eight have already soloed and Harrington wants to get the five started before ground training of a new class starts next Monday.

The lucky five who will take their instruction in airwork this week are Warren J. Hoop, 235 West Fourth street; Paul D. Leonhardt, Shelby; Richard L. Maxwell, 94 Parkwood boulevard; Robert K. McClurg, 572 Garfield place; Robert W. Stewart, R. D. 5, Mansfield.

With the new hangar scheduled for completion tomorrow there will be accommodations at the airport for 11 more planes inside. It will mean the end of staking down several ships every night.

The boys at the port have been talking about a dedication and it has been suggested to Norman Kann, president of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association that the organization hold its next meeting at the port for that purpose.

They've hinted at having a dance in the present hangar and then serve hotdogs and coffee. The younger group of students have advocated it as a means of becoming more acquainted with some of the older fliers.

There's also been a marked change in four of the planes within the past week. The ships all Luscombes looked alike and there was no way of distinguishing them in the air unless the license number was memorized.

But Chief Mechanic Paul Ginbel has changed all that and each now has the motor cowling and leading edge of the wings trimmed in differtnt color paint.

The Chamber of Commerce couldn't do any better for Mansfield than the owners of the planes plan to finish off the job.

Each ship will be painted with an insignia bearing the words, "Mansfield Ohio Airport."

* * *

* * *

Students to solo the past few days included Lester Cox, airport attendant and Leroy Austin, latest of the CPT trainees.

Tax Examiner to Start 'Tour' of County Next Week

Harley D. Miracle, Richland county sales tax examiner, will be in Shelby and six villages in the county during the last 10 days of July to help merchants fill out their semi-annual sales tax reports, H. H. Hering, district sales tax manager, said today.

The examiner will open his schedule next Monday, July 22, when he will be at Shaffer's store in Shiloh from 12:30 to 4:30 p. m., to assist vendors in that area.

Miracle's schedule for the rest of the month includes:

Shelby, George Armstrong's office, 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. July 23; Butler, Weekley's garage, 8:30 a. m. to noon, July 24; Bellville, Bone's hardware store, 12:30 to 4:30 p. m., July 24; Plymouth bank, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., July 25; Lexington, Koogle grocery, noon to 4:30 p. m., July 26; Lucas bank, 11 a. m. to 3 p. m., July 29; Shelby, George Armstrong's office, 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., July 30.

Examiners will assist Mansfield vendors who call at the sales tax office in the basement of the courthouse. The reports must be filed by July 31.

HOW TO GET

A $100 LOAN

WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan without red tape or delay — if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to arrange us with your problem. You need no budget worries, no endless interviews.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. This permits choice of the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and 1% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate — the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration, in case of sickness or unemployment, as long as you are a Household Finance customer. Just ask us for information on this plan. Payments may be arranged on a monthly, semi-monthly or weekly basis. Loans may be secured only as protection against hazard.

If a loan can help you, phone or call on us for further information. No obligation.
